Mystery Surrounds Death of Farm Worker

POLICE SEEKING CLUES TO DEATH OF E. G. ROSSITER

Funeral Planned Thursday For Ex-Soldier Found Along Hargus Creek Here

BULLETIN
Charles O. Thompson, wanted by Circleville police for questioning concerning the mystery death of Edwin G. Rossiter, was in the custody of Chillicothe police Tuesday afternoon. Thompson was nabbed there after he had eluded police in Circleville.

Death of Edwin Gerald Rossiter, 31-year-old farmhand and World War II veteran who lived with his parents on Route 2, Kingston, remained shrouded in mystery, Tuesday, as investigating authorities attempted to determine whether he was a murderer or accident victim.

Dr. Lloyd Jones, Pickaway county coroner, announced he would withhold an official verdict pending results of laboratory tests of the vital organs. He said a full report of the tests and an autopsy performed Monday night will likely be received Wednesday or Thursday.

A suspect in the case gave police the slip Tuesday. After hunting most of the night for the suspect, said to have been seen with Mr. Rossiter late Sunday night, two patrolmen went to the rear door of his home about 7 a. m. The suspect departed via the front door and reportedly ran on the railroad right-of-way. The officers spent two hours searching the vicinity but the suspect eluded them. He reportedly wore a grey overcoat answering to the description of Mr. Rossiter's overcoat reported missing.

THE AUTOPSY took place at the request of the coroner and was performed by Dr. Hartwell, a pathologist at Grant hospital, Columbus, who was assisted by Dr. Hemle, Columbus.

The lifeless body of Mr. Rossiter, who served with the Army combat engineers in Europe and Africa more than three years and received five bronze stars, was found shortly after noon Monday partially submerged in the waters of Hargus Creek under a Norfolk and Western railway trestle at the northwest edge of Circleville.

In a pocket of the overall clad body was the victim's Army discharge. Later the body was positively identified by two of his six brothers.

In a pocket also, Police (Continued on Page Two)

Lake Success (heartache manor) — the security council has celebrated its first birthday — still no signs of teeth and it cries all the time.

But there will be no repercussions on Mr. Truman's drive against Communism in government — it seems that Russia has no Demmies to throw out.

It is estimated that it will take 3,000 extra federal employees to conduct the loyalty check. Don't know yet who is going to check on the checkers.

We have a full calendar here — it looks as though the next case will be the boulder dispute between MacPhail and Durocher.

DEMOCRATS HIT GOP FARM PLAN

Knisley Hurls Charges As Result Of Naming Of Bath To Post

COLUMBUS, O., March 25 — Ohio Democratic headquarters charged today that the proposed reorganization of the state agriculture department was an attempt on the part of Governor Herbert A. H. Knisley to convert the agriculture department into an anti-labor, anti-coop arm of the Republican party.

The charge was issued over the name of Clarence H. Knisley, director of Democratic state headquarters. He singled out for particular attack the appointment of former Farm Bureau lobbyist Edwin J. Bath as secretary to the agriculture board and manager of the Ohio State fair at $8,000 a year.

Knisley declared that Bath, in his testimony before the agriculture committee of the Ohio senate, "criticized almost every feature of the Ohio Farm Bureau federation and its interest in labor."

"The Democratic party," Knisley said, "would like to know what the philosophy of government, or the organization of the Farm Bureau or labor groups has to do with the administration of the affairs of the agriculture department, including the Ohio State fair."

"Certainly, farm groups and labor groups have common interests and common objectives. They are inter-dependent on each other. And if they walk arm in arm, that should be no concern of the state agriculture department."

Knisley said "it appears that the state of Ohio is financing Mr. Bath's feud with his former associate, Murray D. Lincoln, secretary and director of the Farm Bureau federation."

Knisley predicted that many other "angles" would "probably be uncovered before the feud between the two men ends."

MARSHALL SAID WAITING RIGHT TIME TO VISIT

MOSCOW, March 25 — Secretary of State George C. Marshall, only one of the three statesmen visiting Moscow who has not been received at the Kremlin, was understood today to be awaiting two developments:

The first was said to be that Marshall wants to sit tight until an invitation is issued by Premier Joseph Stalin rather than make a personal request for an interview.

The second condition was said to be related to strategy. Marshall was believed to be inclined to await a moment when the council of foreign ministers has reached a point where talks at the Kremlin may provide the touchstone to resolve problems still unsettled.

Committee Puts Gag On Demos Amending Tax Bill

WASHINGTON, March 25 — The house rules committee today imposed a "gag" on Democratic attempts to revise the Knutson tax reduction bill and cleared the way for its passage Thursday by the house without change.

The powerful GOP-controlled group over-rode Democratic protests that the bill, which would cut taxes three billion, 800 million dollars this year, was "a discriminatory patchwork of political expediency."

The committee reported a "rule" permitting only minor amendments by the Republican-dominated ways and means committee to correct typographical errors in the bill. Six hours of debate, beginning tomorrow, was authorized to be followed by a final vote on passage Thursday afternoon.

No Democratic members of the ways and means committee appeared personally to oppose the "gag" rule, which is the normal procedure on a tax measure. In fact, Rep. Doughton (D) N. C., ranking minority committee member, sent word by Rep. Reed (R) N. Y., that he favored the "gag."

Doughton will be permitted to offer one amendment, just before the final vote, to return the bill to the committee for revision, a move which seemed almost certain to fail.

THOROUGH OHIO TAX LAW STUDY PROPOSED NOW

COLUMBUS, O., March 25 — A nine-member commission to make a thorough study of Ohio's tax laws and those of other states would be provided by a new senate bill today.

The measure, introduced by Sens. Ralph Winter (R-Lodi) and Stanley Mechem (R-Nelsonville), would appropriate $100,000 and empower the commission to hire an experienced tax expert and other personnel. The commission would report back to the next legislature and recommend any changes in the law it believed necessary.

Winter declared that "the fact that school, local government and other groups insist they are financially embarrassed is an indictment of our tax system."

Mechem said the new commission would be empowered to go further than did state tax commissioner C. Emory Glander, who studied the tax laws last year at the request of a special legislative session and recently submitted a list of 20 recommendations to the assembly.

Under terms of the bill, the commission could also study the taxing structures of the various subdivisions.

MEETING WITH SOLONS SAID 'VERY PROFITABLE'

WASHINGTON, March 25 — President Truman today regarded as "very profitable" a meeting he held last night with bi-partisan leaders on extension of his authority under the second war powers act.

Mr. Truman's outlook on the conference was revealed by the White House which emphasized that the "sole topic" of the 35-minute long meeting was the president's powers.

RUSSIANS SAID GETTING SECRET OF ATOM BOMB

Un-American Committee Asks For Stronger Security Measures By U. S.

WASHINGTON, March 25 — Rep. Thomas (R) N. J., chairman of the house un-American activities committee, expressed belief today that Russia "is making some progress toward getting the atomic bomb."

Thomas' statement followed testimony by William C. Bullitt, former American ambassador to Moscow, that the Soviet Union "already would have" dropped the A-bomb on the United States if she had possessed the weapon.

Bullitt's testimony immediately brought demands from committee members for stronger security measures to prevent the secret of atomic energy from falling into the hands of a foreign power.

Thomas said that he believed that "our security measures are not sufficient" and that Bullitt had "just substantiated my ideas."

REP. NIXON (R) Calif., a committee member, declared that "we must use every security measure possible to see that we don't let the Russians get the secret of the atom bomb." He added:

"They'll get it eventually anyway. They'll find it themselves or they'll steal it. But, we must make sure that we don't help them."

Bullitt told the committee that Communists are "attempting to seize strategic positions throughout the world for an eventual attack on the United States."

HE SAID that Russia "will not dare" to attack the United States, however, until she has manufactured the atomic bomb in quantity and has built up an air force superior to American air power. He added:

"That gives us a period in which we can say to Stalin, 'stop,' and mean it and he will stop. But, Stalin will not stop of his own accord. He has to be stopped."

GREEN CLAIMS OUTLAWING IS COMMUNIST AID

WASHINGTON, March 25 — AFL President William Green told congress today that he strongly opposes legislation to outlaw the Communist party because such action would help "the spread of Communism."

Green testified before the house un-American activities committee that "outlawing the Communists would only drive them underground." He said:

"The spread of Communism would be helped, not hindered by the enactment of laws making Communism illegal."

Green said that the Communists operate through the technique of infiltrating into organizations and that they have captured the control of many groups, "completely non-Communist in their origin."

Instead of legislation to outlaw the party, he recommended the creation of a national, bi-partisan commission "to restudy the internal and external security of our democracy, and to recommend a comprehensive program."

FIRST MEETING OF GUARD COMPANY SLATED TONIGHT

All men interested in joining Company I, Circleville unit of the Ohio National Guard, are requested to report at 8 p. m. Tuesday at the Armory.

Captain Jack Clifton, who will head the rifle company, said that several men had expressed interest and he expects the company quota to be filled quickly.

Earmarking of Funds Opposed By Clayton

WASHINGTON, March 25 — Under secretary of state William L. Clayton declared today he opposed restricting Greco-Turkish aid by specific terms governing distribution or provision for repayment.

At the same time Sen. Pepper of Florida and Sen. Taylor of Idaho, Democratic liberals, demanded that the United Nations handle the Middle East crisis. They asserted that President Truman's plan would scuttle UN and embark the United States on a worldwide conflict.

CLAYTON told the senate foreign relations committee that aid to Greece is necessary because an economic crisis exists. He added:

"In view of the unusual conditions confronting us in this situation I do not believe that it would be wise or practical to specify now what the terms might be."

He said that assistance provided for military purposes "being essential to our own security" should be made as a clear grant.

Clayton told the committee that repayment of aid for civilian purposes could be sought when its effect had created an ability on the part of the receiving country to meet obligations in foreign exchange.

The undersecretary acknowledged that economic conditions are more favorable in Turkey than they are in Greece but added:

"I want to emphasize that none of the 100 million dollars recommended for Turkey is for normal civilian supply purposes. All of it will be expended for purposes which will contribute to the security of Turkey."

Clayton said this would include equipment for the Turkish armed forces and such related projects as rehabilitation of the railroad system.

Pepper and Taylor offered a joint resolution to provide financial aid for Greece through a UN fund to which the United States would contribute 250 million dollars.

Financial aid to Turkey was excluded. The senators said this problem should be handled by UN in the manner of Iran, Syria and Lebanon.

THEY URGED U. S. representatives to request an emergency meeting of the UN general assembly which would also discuss the Dardanelles, Palestine and middle eastern oil problems. The senators said these questions were directly related to the American entry into the Greco-Turkish crisis.

Pepper and Taylor in a statement accompanying their resolution charged that President Truman's plan for Greece and Turkey makes it clear that "we are committed to the same policy at least in every area of the world which we deem to be of strategic significance."

They warned: "We must not sacrifice the (Continued on Page Two)"

STALIN WILL TRY TO BARGAIN

Russia Reported Wanting British To Yield On German Problems

MOSCOW, March 25 — Soviet Premier Joseph Stalin was reported today to have adopted the position that Britain must meet Russia half way in any final solution of the future of Germany if the Soviets are to agree to Britain's request for extension of the Anglo-Russian treaty of alliance.

Indications that Stalin had decided to make any pact extension a point for bargaining were reported following a talk between the Soviet generalissimo and British foreign secretary Ernest Bevin last night.

It had been expected that British and Soviet officials would initiate steps for revision of the Anglo-Russian alliance simultaneous with resumption of sessions of the big four council of foreign ministers.

Reports in conference circles said that while the alliance was discussed by the two, Stalin took the position that the most important matter at present is settlement of the German problem.

The view seemed to be that if Bevin adopts a more conciliatory attitude in regard to Russian reparations claims and participation in control of the Ruhr Stalin may be disposed to extend the alliance.

Originally Stalin made it known that he wanted certain clauses of the pact strengthened before he would agree to extension of the pact from 20 years to 50 years.

A full report on Stalin's attitude was sent by Bevin today to the British cabinet.

FLEXIBLE PLAN OF UNIFYING IS 'IKE' PROPOSAL

WASHINGTON, March 25 — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower asked congress today for a "flexible" unification of the armed forces and sharply criticized "inter-service" arguments on the merger issue.

The Army chief of staff and wartime supreme commander in Europe told the senate armed services committee that a flexible organization is essential "in this day of scientific and technological war."

Eisenhower said he was "astonished" when he returned from overseas and found Washington military officialdom involved in controversies over the merger proposal.

Telling the committee that overseas officers were in unanimous agreement that unification was necessary, Eisenhower hit at military politics in Washington.

JACKSON SCHOOLS CLOSE

JACKSON, O., March 25 — Jackson School Supt. Kermit Daugherty announced today that city schools would be closed the remainder of the week because of the absence of a fourth of the students. Influenza and scarlet fever were blamed.

1,000 PHONES OUT OF ORDER AFTER STORM

Schools Closed, Towns Dark, As Near Hurricane Sweeps Over Ohio

King Winter, in a vengeful mood, paid a return visit to the Circleville area Monday night and lashed the area with a severe thunder and rainstorm topped off with gale-like winds which reached an estimated velocity of 50 miles an hour.

The hurricane-like winds continued throughout the night and Tuesday morning, littering Circleville streets with tree branches and limbs and doing other damage.

As a result of the severe rain and wind storm during which the mercury plunged downward rapidly, telephone and electric power service was impaired.

ED JURY, manager of the Ohio Consolidated Telephone company, said at noon Tuesday that considerable damage was caused but he was unable to estimate the damage in money.

Jury reported that approximately 1,000 telephones were put out of commission and that the wind blew down approximately 300 poles. He also reported that a 300-pair cable was considerably damaged and flooded in a man-hole at the rear of the fire station on East Franklin street.

The 1,000 telephones, Jury explained, are in the south section of Circleville and in rural areas mostly south of the city. Most of the 300 leveled telephone poles, Jury said, are in the county outside of Circleville.

Repair crews labored all night, Jury said, and the job was continuing Tuesday. All available men were pressed into service, Jury stated, and the company hoped to restore service on most of the 1,000 telephones by nightfall Tuesday.

CHARLES T. GILMORE district manager in Circleville for the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric company, said power lines suffered only minor damage and that crews of linemen were making repairs as rapidly as possible. Gilmore said no serious trouble had been encountered as a result of the storm.

Fire Chief Talmer Wise reported that the storm damaged the already badly crippled fire alarm system in Circleville. Luckily, he said, no fires occurred during the storm.

Police and the sheriff's departments reported having received no calls resulting from the storm and no reports of damage.

The wind blew down a sign in front of the Jim Brown store on West Main street. Minor damage was caused to a cement block building at the S. C. Grant company, South (Continued on Page Two)

RUSSIA MAKES CONCESSIONS TO SPEED TREATY

MOSCOW, March 25 — Sudden abandonment of Russia's opposition on a raft of hitherto-deadlocked issues enabled the deputies of the big four foreign ministers to agree today on several highly-important clauses of the projected Austrian treaty.

While his fellow conferees sat in bewildered amazement, Fedor Gusev voluntarily reeled off concession after concession.

As a result, the deputies agreed to allow Austria a standing army of 53,000 men, and to eliminate the controversial word "fascist" from articles designed to insure against the return to key positions of former Nazis.

Gusev, after breaking the logjam on a half-dozen points by his conciliatory attitude, then proposed a plan for disposing of Austria's displaced persons. He would have persons of German origin removed from Austria, and then have Vienna authorities evacuate DP's within six months after the treaty became effective.

POLICE SEEKING CLUES TO DEATH OF E. G. ROSSITER

Chief William F. McCrady said, was a bottle of strychnine pills. Mr. Rossiter's brothers said he had been in the habit of taking the pills as a precaution against heart attacks.

CHIEF McCRADY said that the marks of fingers around Mr. Rossiter's throat were plainly visible. Death had occurred "a number of hours" before discovery of the body, Dr. Jones said, and Chief McCrady asserted that the finger marks were emphasized by dents in the throat and neck.

At Chief McCrady's request photographs of the neck finger-marks were taken by a representative of the State Highway Patrol, Columbus, before the body was removed to the Deffenbaugh funeral home.

Although no formal verdict has been returned and while Coroner Jones declined to express an opinion as to whether Mr. Rossiter met with foul play, he did reveal that the autopsy had shown death was due to "strangulation."

In tracing the movements of Mr. Rossiter preceding the finding of the body Chief McCrady said police had found no one who saw him after about 11:30 p. m. Sunday when he was seen in the White Swan cafe on West Main street. Two brothers said they drove Mr. Rossiter to Circleville about 10 a. m. Sunday but did not see him after he got out of the car at that time. They also said they took him home late Saturday night. Police said Mr. Rossiter attempted to cash a government check Saturday night in the Eagles' lodge home in Circleville. The brothers said they knew nothing about the check and that so far as they knew he had $3 or $4 when they brought him to Circleville Sunday morning.

Chief McCrady said a lone 50-cent piece was in a pocket when the body was found.

Coroner Jones said the autopsy report will likely reveal the quantity of strychnine if any and also the amount of alcohol if any in the body.

Police and the coroner said that whether Mr. Rossiter fell from the railway trestle — about 30 feet above the spot where the body lay — remained a matter of conjecture.

The body was found face up and in about two feet of water but head and shoulders were out of the water and the head was resting on a large rock.

If Mr. Rossiter plunged from the trestle to the creek, police declared, just why he was on the trestle remains a mystery.

MR. ROSSITER was born June 2, 1915, in Ross county, the son of Humphrey Rossiter and Alice Miller Rossiter. He was inducted into the Army on June 23, 1942 and was discharged Oct. 14, 1945. In addition to the Eagles' lodge he was a member of the Corn Planters tribe, Red Men's lodge, Adelphi, and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Chillicothe.

Survivors include a sister, Mrs. Maizie Wise, Chillicothe; and six brothers, Ronald Rossiter, Lorin Rossiter, Darwin Rossiter, Arlie Rossiter, Cecil Rossiter, and Roland Rossiter, all of Route 2, Kingston. His brothers said he was married about six months ago but never had lived with his bride, who, they said, resides at Chillicothe.

The body will be removed from the Deffenbaugh funeral home Wednesday evening to the residence of Isaac Rossiter, one mile west of Whisler, where the victim had been making his home. Friends may call there. Funeral and burial will be Thursday at 2:30 p. m. at Hallsville.

BOWLING ALLEYS IN WHITE HOUSE NEWEST MYSTERY

WASHINGTON, March 25 — White house mystery of the week developed today when it was learned that two bowling alleys are being set up in the executive mansion for President Truman, who does not bowl.

The two alleys, of regulation length, are a birthday present to Mr. Truman from what the White House describes as "a group of anonymous donors."

The bowling alleys are being erected in the basement of the executive wing in a space formerly occupied by wartime files.

The alleys are scheduled to be completed for presentation to the president on his birthday anniversary, May 8.

The great mystery is who gave the President the bowling alleys and why.

The President himself said this morning that he has not bowled since he was 19 years old. The President will be 63, May 8.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross would not throw any light on the mystery. He said the alleys are a gift of anonymous donors and wouldn't cost the government any money.

"Are the bowling alleys for the use of the President or the anonymous donors?" Ross was asked. He replied, laughingly:

"The president said he may take up bowling again."

PORTLAND, Ore., March 25 — They'd better count their teeth, too.

A bedroom prowler pulled Mrs. Lyle Arends' $150 wedding ring from her finger yesterday as she slept in her home in Portland.

Her husband didn't wake up, either.

TWO QUARANTINED

Two more Pickaway county children were under scarlet fever quarantine in their homes, Tuesday, by order of Dr. A. D. Blackburn, county health commissioner. They are: Patricia Woodward, 8, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Brandy Woodward, Kingston, and Danielle Bell, 8, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Miles Bell, Ringgold.

INDICTED FOR MURDER

HILLSBORO, O., March 25 — Cecil Yankey, 39, Greenfield, was held without bond today in Highland county jail on a charge of first-degree murder for the slaying of Leroy Woodland, 74. The old age pensioner was found beaten to death last Thursday in his Greenfield home.

1,000 PHONES OUT OF ORDER AFTER STORM

Pickaway street, and at Ashville the gale blew part of the roof from the Crites Canning company.

Late Monday night the rain changed to snow. Many sections of Ohio reported storm damage.

INJURIES and property damage were mounting, all traffic was virtually paralyzed in many northern counties and scores of schools were closed.

Center of the storm passed squarely over the Cleveland area around 3 a. m. and dropped the barometric pressure to 28.65 — the lowest in the history of the weather bureau for that area.

The wind, coming in gusts that bowled pedestrians right off their feet, ranged from 55 miles an hour in velocity at Cleveland to 75 miles at Akron.

Weatherman C. G. Andrus described the storm as an "equinoctial," which invariably occurs shortly before or after a change of seasons. He said it came out of the Northwest with little or no warning and was battering the lake area from Chicago eastward.

DAMAGE and injuries came from both phases of the disturbance. The resulting snow and cold extended as far south as Columbus, where power lines were torn down, part of the capital city was without lights and other damage reported.

In the South, the thunderstorms and electrical disturbances caused widespread destruction from Cincinnati northward.

Springfield had early evening thunderstorm and gale winds. Dayton reported winds between 50 and 60 miles an hour. Five hundred employees of Williams Shoe Manufacturing company at Portsmouth were sent home when a power line was blown down. Kenton high school and other Hardin county schools were closed due to ice and snow.

INITIAL outbreak was from the southeast late yesterday after the mercury had climbed to record highs for the year so far. It was 31 at Cincinnati this morning, compared with 65 degrees yesterday afternoon.

During the night the winds shifted to northwest, drawing into Ohio what the weather bureau described as a "hurricane-like" depression. Winds increased in intensity and snow squalls buffeted the countryside.

In a matter of 18 hours the mercury plunged 25 degrees or more to below freezing readings over the entire state this morning.

At 10 a. m. today, Andrus said the winds were beginning to diminish in force and would continue to fall off toward evening.

The cold, however, was to hang on through tomorrow, with even lower morning temperatures than those of today. The weather was to be partly cloudy, with a tendency to warming up again by Thursday.

Deaths and Funerals

MRS. JOSEPH DONANT

Funeral services for Mrs. Emily Malone Donant, 61, wife of Joseph Donant and sister of George Goodchild and John Goodchild, both of Circleville, who died at 9:30 p. m. Saturday in her home at Massillon, were to be conducted Tuesday afternoon in a Massillon funeral home. Burial was to be in a Massillon cemetery.

A native of Ross county, Mrs. Donant was born Feb. 2, 1886 at Massillon, the daughter of John and Agnes Goodchild. Until 15 years ago she lived at Chillicothe.

In addition to her husband and two brothers in Circleville Mrs. Donant is survived by a daughter, Miss Agnes Malone, Honolulu; two sons, Calvin Malone, Massillon; and Vaughn Malone, Newark; three sisters, Mrs. Mary Waite, Kingston; Mrs. Lily Osborne, Columbus; and Mrs. Daisy McQuattie, Lorain; three other brothers, Walter Goodchild, Jacksonsville; Earl Goodchild, Columbus; and Lester Goodchild, Grand Island, N. Y.; and 2 grandchildren.

ERNEST GOLDSBERRY

Ernest Goldsberry, 46, was found dead at 1 p. m. Monday in his home on South Scioto street. Death was attributed to lung hemorrhage. He had been in ill health for 12 years.

Mr. Goldsberry, who was a monument cutter, was the son of Samuel Goldsberry and Mrs. Sophia Goldsberry. His mother is a patient in Berger hospital.

Besides his parents Mr. Goldsberry is survived by a son, Jack Goldsberry, Detroit, Mich.; two brothers, Carl Goldsberry, Lancaster; and James Goldsberry, address unknown; a half-sister, Mrs. Minnie Keating, Los Angeles, Calif.; and a half-brother, Harry, Detroit, Mich.

The body was removed to the Mader funeral home and funeral arrangements are incomplete pending the arrival of his son from Detroit.

THEFTS FROM GARAGE, HOUSE ARE REPORTED

Pickaway county sheriff's department Tuesday was seeking thieves who committed two thefts Saturday night.

Earl Hanley reported a tricycle valued at $15 and an auto jack were stolen from his garage on the D. L. Fulton farm three miles south of Circleville on U. S. Route 23, Leslie Weiler, Route 2, Williamsport, complained that thieves entered an untenanted dwelling on the Westfall road and stole two doors.

UNRRA SHIP SINKING

LONDON, March 25 — A Reuters dispatch from Belgrade reported today that the UNRRA victory ship "Saint Lawrence" is sinking off the Dalmatian coast.

OHIOAN WANTS 'BUREAUCRATICS' CUT OFF PAYROLL

WASHINGTON, March 25 — Congressman J. Harry McGregg (R) West Lafayette, O., demanded in congress today that 700,000 "displaced bureaucrats and war-time refugees" be lopped off the federal payroll.

The Ohioan declared that President Truman's budget calls for increases of two or three hundred per cent in the expenditures of each government department over any pre-war year.

He said that the labor department has asked for six times as much in 1948 as in 1940 while the state department's request has multiplied 29 times. He added:

"I don't want to do away with any department, or with any individual, absolutely essential to the orderly functioning of our government, but I venture the assertion that if the various department payrolls were gone over carefully, the results would show that some of their payrolls are havens for displaced bureaucrats and war-time refugees who do not want to go back where they came from."

NINE OCCUPANTS OF TRANSPORT ARE FOUND SAFE

ST. JOHNS, Newfoundland, March 25 — All nine occupants of a four-engined C-54 air transport command plane forced down 50 miles southwest of Stephenville, Newfoundland were found safe today.

A Coast Guard helicopter, flown up to Newfoundland from Floyd Bennett Field, N. Y., was pressed into service in rescuing the survivors, and by mid-morning, one of the downed plane's crew-members was taken to safety to Harmon field.

The wreckage of the huge Sky-master plane, which was forced to land while enroute from Macdon, Ga., to Germany, was found near St. Fintans, across the Bay of St. George from Harmon field.

TEACHERS' PAY RAISES STUDIED BY OHIO SOLONS

FEPC Legislation, Turnpike
Commission Considered
By Committees

COLUMBUS, O., March 25—A pay raise of 14 and a half million dollars a year for Ohio's 40,000 school teachers was considered by the senate education committee today.

It was believed likely, however, that the committee would side-track the proposal, submitted by the Cincinnati Republican delegation. The group already has recommended for passage the $5 million dollar a year Daniels-Cramer school bill which the pay raise proposal seeks to supplant.

The Cincinnati senators — Fred Reiners, Stanley McKie and Kyle Brooks — contend their proposal would mean more money in pocket for teachers than the 26 millions a year additional provided by the Daniels-Cramer school bill.

They point out that changing the school foundation formula, as the Daniels-Cramer bill provides, does not guarantee teachers any specified increase other than to guarantee a $2,000 minimum for teachers with a bachelor's degree. The money otherwise goes to local school districts to more-or-less do with as they see fit.

MEANWHILE, the senate commerce and labor committee conducted another hearing on fair employment practices legislation, while the highways committee scheduled a hearing tonight on the Winter proposal to establish a state turnpike commission.

Four bills were being brought to the senate floor for a vote, including one to make permanent the present temporary law making absentee voting easier for those in the armed forces.

In the house, the judiciary committee considered three measures broadening the power of the state highway patrol, while the taxation committee studied measures to repeal the state admissions tax to enable cities to levy on this source of revenue. The bills follow the suggestions of Governor Herbert.

THE SENATE last night re-committed two Cleveland bills to the judiciary committee for a study of an alleged "sleeper" clause at the request of the bill's sponsors, Sens. Allan Corlett (R-Cleveland) and Margaret Mahoney (D-Cleveland).

The bills would permit the state public works director to contract with Cleveland to permit the city to construct a new breakwater and water intake.

REP. FRANK W. MOULTON DIES OF HEART ATTACK

PORTSMOUTH, O., March 25 —The house of representatives mourned the loss of the third member this year today with the death of Rep. Frank W. Moulton, 70, who was serving his second term in the general assembly.

Moulton died unexpectedly Saturday afternoon of a heart attack while lunching at a downtown Portsmouth restaurant with a fellow Scioto county Republican leader, John F. Johnston.

The former county prosecutor was a brother-in-law of Branch Rickey, president and general manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Robert Morgan, an assistant in the Cleveland law department, charged that an amendment to the bills jeopardized Cleveland's fight to obtain full control of its water front—a fight now before the state supreme court.

The senate unanimously passed a bill extending for two more years the right of retired teachers to return to the classrooms because of the present teacher shortage.

The house adopted by rising vote a resolution expressing regret at the death of Rep. Frank W. Moulton (R-Scioto) who collapsed of a heart attack in Portsmouth. Another resolution congratulated the Middletown high school basketball team for winning the Class A state championship.

A bill to change the salary of the Steubenville clerk from a maximum of $2,400 to a minimum of that amount passed 118-4.

OHIO MOTHER OF 1947 REARED 11 CHILDREN

CLEVELAND, March 25—Mrs. Hester A. Miller, the 86-year-old mother of 11 children, today held the title of the Ohio mother of 1947.

Mrs. Miller, who lives in suburban Lakewood, was selected yesterday by the American mother committee through its Ohio chairman, Sarah Harding Hunter.

The Miller family came from Pennsylvania and settled in Licking county, 15 miles from Columbus. Mr. Miller died in 1922 and his widow successfully raised her eight boys and three girls, saw them through college and launched on careers.

The Miller boys were baseball enthusiasts and had their own team, with an uncle as the ninth member. Five of them served in World War I.

Mrs. Miller lives with one of the sons, Edgar A. Miller, principal of West high school in Cleveland.

KINGSTON

Kingston High school senior girls ensemble won a number one rating, at Denison University central district auditions at Granville, last Friday. The girls competed with groups from large schools, in the state, classified A, B and C. The local girls being in the C group, due to the size of its enrollment.

The nine girls taking part were: Mary Elizabeth Meadows, Janice Sunderland, Garnet Feltenstein, Harriett A. Roby, Joan Weiler, Nancy Freshour, Evelyn Orr, Margaret Cobb and Vernia Graves. Jane Francis was the accompanist and Miss Maxine Weinrich the supervisor.

Richard Routt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Routt has been promoted to corporal. He has been overseas, serving in the Philippine Islands, near Manila, since December.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Roby, Sr. and Harriett were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Ater and family, Williamsport.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Brooks and Ruth Ann spent Saturday in Columbus.

CHANDLER MAY ASK FOR PEACE IN BALL SEASON

Ruling Everything Was Big Misunderstanding Seen In Baseball Rumpus

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 25—A ruling that everything was a great big misunderstanding loomed today as the probable outcome of hearings baseball commissioner Happy Chandler is conducting on charges of defamation made by Larry MacPhail against Branch Rickey, Leo Durocher and road secretary Harold Parrott of the Dodgers.

On Friday Chandler will hold another "hearing" at a local hotel, when, according to announced plans, he will continue to investigate the biggest baseball rumpus of recent years.

Because only MacPhail and Rickey have been asked to attend this session, informed baseball quarters believe that it really will be a peace talk. Instead of putting the two club presidents on the witness stand, it is whispered, he will, in effect, order them to get ready to kiss and make up.

What happened at yesterday's hearing in Sarasota to bring the commissioner around to this way of thinking is not precisely known, because all the participants were instructed by Chandler not to talk. Reliable sources report, however, that the "I was misunderstood" motif predominated throughout.

THE HEARING was held with MacPhail and Dan Topping, co-owners of the Yankees, representing their club. President Will Harridge of the American League also was present, but took no active part in the affair.

In the absence of Rickey, who was at Portsmouth, Ohio, attending the funeral of his brother-in-law, the Dodgers were represented by assistant general manager Branch Rickey, Jr., Walter O'Malley, secretary and treasurer of the club; Arthur Mann, assistant to the president; and state senator George H. Williams, a St. Louis lawyer and old friend of Rickey's.

Seven witnesses were heard—including Durocher, Parrott, coaches Charles Dressen and Red Corriden of the Yankees, Augie Galan, former Dodgers outfielder now with the Reds; Ted McGrew, former Dodgers scout now with the Pirates; and Topping.

What Durocher—who was accompanied by his wife, Lorraine Day, when he flew over from Havana for the hearings along with other Dodgers officials—had to testify could not be learned along the grapevine.

Who gave the tickets to Memphis Engelberg and Connie Immerman, the two Broadwayites who were pictured sitting close by MacPhail at a game in Havana, also was a moot point in the hearing.

NORTHEY JOINS PHILS CLEARWATER, FLA., March 25—Ron Northey, erstwhile hold-out outfielder, will make his 1947 debut today when the Phillies meet the Cincinnati Reds. Manager Ben Chapman, who is satisfied with the performances of his regulars, plans to try out his rookies in the remainder of the Spring circuit games.

CUBS DROP THREE LOS ANGELES, March 25 —The Chicago Cubs sheared three players off their roster today. After the Cubs lost, 5 to 0, in 11 innings yesterday to the San Diego Padres, Manager Charley Grimm announced the release of pitchers Ed Hanyzewski, Ray Prim and Russ Bauers.

Odds and Ends Of News From Cage Tournament

COLUMBUS, O., March 25 — Scrambled scribbles from the sports samovar. Cleaning out the state tournament file. Veteran Middletown observers called their 1947 team the school's worst in seven years—it would be hard to convince East Liverpool that such was the case.

A major factor in the Middies' success is a "feeder" system that starts the lads playing basketball in grade school. They play all year around, with asphalt outdoor courts-dotted city playground facilities.

One of the most popular tournament features was the between-halves exhibition put on by the Hamilton high school tumbling club for both afternoon and evening finals crowds. Credit for a marvelous show goes to Jim Grimm, diminutive balding Hamilton gym instructor.

KENTUCKY LOSS IS RATED UPSET OF THE CENTURY

NEW YORK, March 25 — N.C.A.A. basketball final between Oklahoma and Holy Cross at Madison Square Garden tonight will be merely an anticlimax to Utah's sensational triumph over all-powerful Kentucky for the national invitation title.

Utah's "Cinderella Kids" scored the court upset of the century last night by defeating Kentucky, heavily-favored defending champions, 49-45, in the big game of the year.

The amazing feat of the "Upset Utes" in making fabulous Kentucky bite the dust may be a sign that Holy Cross, another red-hot quintet at the moment, could trip up Oklahoma in tonight's game. The Crusaders have won their last 22 starts. However the Sooners, with 11 wins in their last 12 starts, also are right on the ball.

In the "consolation" opener, Texas clashes with City College, which lost to Holy Cross Saturday night.

Regardless of the outcome of tonight's games, basketball fans today still were talking about last night's super-duper which saw the downfall of Kentucky, the nation's No. 1 quintet which had won 33 out of 36 games this season.

of Phillipsburg and Lee Thomas of Columbiana won first team mention, while Lee Kattman of New Knoxville made the alternate quintet.

Lima sources report Bill Sharp, Central's All-Ohio half-back, is headed toward Ohio State. Sharp's a bit on the small side, but Lima fans knowingly remind that so were Tommy James, Tippy Dye and numerous others. Sharp, incidentally, has taken up track this Spring and is expected to become one of the best quarter-milers in Central history.

Sam Manos, Ohio State freshman, couldn't make a very big splash against such Buck divers as Bruce Harlan, Miller Anderson, Jim Strong and Jack Calhoun. So he forsook the swimmers and hitch-hiked to Champaign two weekends ago and won himself the Big Nine tumbling championship.

NEW BOAT MARK HIS GOAL

AUTOMOBILE and motorboat racing king, Sir Malcolm Campbell now plans to make a new assault on his own world motorboat record of 141.7 miles per hour. He has a new racer, jet-propelled, with which he is seen in photo taken at Hayes, England. (International)

BLOODWORTH HOMERS

MIAMI BEACH, FLA., March 25—Second-Sacker Jimmy Bloodworth today had saved the Pittsburgh Pirates a second defeat at the hands of the Baltimore Orioles of the International League. Bloodworth walloped a ninth inning home run with bases full and one out to down the Orioles 5-1 at the Pirates' Flamingo park training camp.

HANDLEY STARS

WEST PALM BEACH, FLA., March 25 — Second Baseman Gene Handley today was credited with almost single-handedly snapping the Athletics' four-game losing streak to bounce the Boston Braves 3-2. Handley rapped out two hits, drove in two runs and scored the third.

RUSSIAN VETO OF ALBANIAN ACTION SLATED

Seven Nations Expected To Vote 'Guilty' Against
Albania In UN

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., March 24—A veto by the Soviet Union looms today in the United Nations security council's expected indictment of Albania on charges of complicity in a secret mine-field in the Corfu channel.

Authentic indications are that if the 11 members of the council can reach a showdown on the British complaint that Albania committed "an offense against humanity," seven will cast their ballot for a verdict of guilty. Britain, as the complaining country has no vote.

Syria, Poland and Soviet Russia have persistently championed the Albanian cause. Since a matter of substantive by a big five power is involved, a negative vote on the issue by Soviet delegate Andrei Gromyko will constitute a veto.

British and other delegation members also indicated that the issue has become a test of principle and that the prestige of the council to a large extent is considered to stand or fall on its ability or inability to make a decision.

FURTHER attempts by Gromyko to forestall a vote are regarded as likely to drag the case into still another session, although the United States and France are ready to support Britain in calling the turn and compelling a decision.

Competent sources believe that if Gromyko casts a veto, Britain will feel vindicated and take the case to the international court at The Hague, where there is no veto.

On the agenda of the eleven o'clock meeting this morning is an American amendment "softening" the British charges that Albania laid the mines or that it was done "with the connivance" of the Albanian government.

THE WORKING committee of the atomic energy commission will hold its first session behind closed doors at three o'clock this afternoon and formulate procedural plans. Russia has called for immediate consideration of proposals submitted in the form of amendments recently which on the whole nullify the basic provisions of the Baruch atom control plan.

A close working accord between the United States and Britain on conventional disarmament was strikingly revealed in almost identical declarations made before the first session yesterday of the commission for conventional disarmament.

Both U. S. acting representative Herschel V. Johnson and Britain's Sir Alexander Cadogan insisted that sharp teeth be given the United Nations through creation as speedily as possible of an international military force placed at the beck and call of the security council.

Diplomatic sources claim that Soviet Russia has consistently blocked all efforts in the military staff committee to draft plans for an international United Nations force. Gromyko listened impassively to the silent accusations pointed his way by the western delegates and gave no inkling as to his own disarmament program.

AMERICAN, OHIO MOTHERS OF 1946 HONOR GUESTS

CLEVELAND, March 25—The American and the Ohio mother of 1946, as well as a Jewish mother, were feasted Monday at a luncheon and symposium in Cleveland.

Mrs. Clarissa Clement, Louisville, Ky., granddaughter of a slave and mother of seven children, all college graduates, headed the list of guests. A Negro, she was chosen the mother of 1946.

Mrs. Joy Seth Hurd, Cleveland, who won the state honor as well as that of the Catholic family conference last year, and Mrs. Barnett R. Brickner, wife of Capital University varsity girls basketball team for 1946-47.

Cleveland Rabbi Brickner, were the other honored mothers.

Mrs. Brickner took the place of Mrs. de Fola Poole, who was called to Palestine.

The three mothers gave a brief talk, followed by a discussion. Mrs. Louis B. Seltzer acted as moderator.

The Cleveland women's forum, a five-year-old group organized to bring together women of all creeds and races on a common basis, sponsored the affair.

Brass Telescope, Other Interesting Antiques Owned By Mrs. Renick

An old heavy brass telescope or field glass used in surveying the Virginia-Maryland boundary around the year 1800 is now one of the valued possessions of Mrs. Clara Renick, 154 Watt street.

Mrs. Renick's husband, William Bennett Renick, died more than 35 years ago. The old telescope, handed down from father to son in the Renick family, was once used by William Renick, engineer and surveyor and great-grandfather of William Bennett Renick, in establishing the Virginia-Maryland boundary line.

Still visible on the ancient field glass is the inscription of its maker which reads "C. West, Chancery Lane, London, England, Day or Night."

Many years after the survey was made the Renick family moved westward.

Mrs. Renick has many other interesting antiques, including a very old and large brass compass and a small case of old-time brass drafting instruments.

Among the relics is a pair of sun-glasses with very small oval-shaped green lenses. The frame of the sun glasses is made of brass. The bows are perfectly straight and are adjustable as to length.

Mrs. Renick also possesses an old pocketknife which has two blades, a double saw blade, two aws, a screw driver, and a corkscrew.

In her home reposes a mahogany davenport and a mahogany desk which have a history. Many years ago — before the railroads — her husband and his brother drove cattle from Pickaway county to the New York market. After selling the cattle they purchased these two items of furniture to bring back home.

Mr. Renick dropped dead in the backyard and he was carried into the home. It was on this davenport that physicians pronounced him dead. His brother also died on the davenport.

His sister, Mrs. Nellie Smith, who died several weeks ago in Circleville, was the last member of Mr. Renick's family.

COMMUNIST STUFF

ONE METHOD for handling the Communist Party in the United States as a political entity requires no Constitutional Amendment nor new federal law nor anything drastic or questionable involving civil or political rights. It is not new, but has been employed successfully for years. It can be applied by individual citizens without any red tape. It is just not voting for Communist candidates!

Consider, for example, the sincere and godly Norman Thomas, not a Communist, but its opposite, a Socialist, who has been stumping for his Co-operative Commonwealth since long before Hector was a pup. He has made himself liked and respected. But does he get elected? Certainly not. Americans don't want Socialism.

The Postoffice was going before Mr. Thomas began to talk, so he gets no credit for that most socialistic of American institutions. But he made certain wrongs visible, and can claim some credit for school lunches, old age pensions and like matters. Senator Taft, conservative Republican, has been stealing socialist thunder by pushing federal aid for schools. In other words, Americans want no form other than their own, but can adopt good ideas regardless of their origin.

Communist candidates, on the other hand, have made themselves thoroughly disliked and distrusted. Do they ever get within hailing distance of election? Certainly not.

The supreme court says civil service need keep on its rolls no subversive person. This is eminently reasonable. Unions need not elect such people to office. No meeting need allow itself to be disrupted.

"You have a right to think as you please, Mr. Commie, and to utter your views in a public park or to hire your own hall. But your rights stop where those of others begin. This is our meeting to discuss our own problems. Behave yourself in an orderly and courteous manner, as a loyal American, or get out."

All this is within our own powers without any more laws.

On the positive side, why don't we stomp a bit ourselves? Why don't we talk up and down the land about the wonders and glories of our free America?

While experience is valuable in public office, is it more so in Congress than in the White House?

As for Japan, there's life in the old dame yet, and she's using it now for better purposes.

Assignment: America.... by Kenneth L. Dixon

WASHINGTON, March 25 — "This is more than a fine home," said the real estate agent with an expansive flourish. "It is an excellent investment."

"Why?" I asked him.

"Because it actually cost the contractor nearly $14,000 to build it in 1940."

"Yes, but you're asking $18,000 for it."

He laughed at such innocence.

"Yes, and we'd be asking $25,000 for it, if people paid as much attention to quality of construction as they do to convenience of location."

That's what we could get for it in a dozen other Washington suburbs. That's what it would cost to re-build it now — anywhere."

"Do you mean it costs twice as much to build a house now as it did seven years ago?" I wanted to know. "Why? Whose fault is it?"

"That's what the builders tell us," he said. "And they all say the same thing. Don't ask me why. We only sell the houses. We don't construct them. Go ask the builder."

The builder was emphatic about it.

"Sure," he said. "The cost of turning out a finished house has more than doubled in the past five or six years. At least, it has around here — and what I hear from other parts of the country, I guess it's about the same there...."

"And we're not getting much out of it, no matter what folks say. Of course, most builders still try to get the same old ten per cent profit on the total cost, when they can which isn't too often any more. Since houses cost more, that means their flat cut on most houses they build is about double what it was in 1940 and '41, but they can't build nearly as many nowadays. Besides, their own living costs have about doubled in that time, so they're lucky to break even with the old days...."

HE PAUSED to listen to a question. Then his stubby fingers started pushing a pencil over a page torn from a notebook.

"Where does the money go? Well, just about everywhere. Start with the lot. The lot that house is built on probably sold for about $1,500 back in 1940. Today, it would cost you at least $3,000 to get one like it on the same street."

He was right. It would cost more than that.

"Then you start down the list, right from the beginning,

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, March 25—Dear Mr. Editor (an Ohio paper) you write in an editorial: "of course Mr. Mallon isn't a newsman." I don't think you know news. I do not believe you understand news values. You are like a United Press editor who once cabled his correspondent in Spain: "your think stuff unwanted", meaning anything the reporter thought about the situation was not wanted, was of no value, whereas such a report would have been more revealing of the situation than all the non-objective statements of all sides then being published.

Think about this news question for a moment! Normally all newspapers publish some daily news which is known not to be true (Russian press accusations for instance), statements of open or concealed propagandists, the view concerning all subjects of a man who may be an expert on only one subject. You carry the speeches of partisans, the foistings of politicians, (even in columns), the hopes of promoters, the statements of press agents. You strain at a reporter but daily swallow an army of promoters, politicians, press agents. You actually pay to get their views, although they themselves are paid and make a living from daily deceiving you. This is run of the mine news, the least valuable news. It is cheap news.

Yet in every event of a major economic-political-international nature, there can be found someone somewhere who knows the truth of the situation or at any rate the facts behind it. This man's views, which are the most valuable news of all, alone are excluded from the run of mine news, which you normally get.

Now nine times out of ten the man (or men) who really knows what is going on, who can fathom the genuine nature of developments, their inspiration, meaning, import, intent, motif—that man cannot afford to be quoted. He does not wish to become involved in public rows, (there can be no money in that for him), or add needlessly to his worries. That is the man I am always seeking, the man who really knows and can pass on an objective account to the public. Your specific editorial criticism concerned a stock market column. The accurate explanation of the inside of the market is certainly greater news than you have obtained from your financial writers. If they had presented such understanding to the public, I would not have mentioned the subject.

You have become confused also about columnists. You are thinking of all of us as Ickeses. He went into the columnizing business for political propaganda purposes, to use the free space you not only furnish him, but actually pay him for filling with political news you formerly received free in the handouts of his press agents. Many other columnists have come directly out of the propaganda machine of the political administration here for political purposes visible to the naked eye. I am not of that school. I was a reporter for a press association here, writing the statements of both sides, or rather their propaganda for many years, which experience showed me the possibilities of objective reporting.

IT IS all well and good to be in a hurry to cash your high card tricks on the defense against the other fellow's contract. But there is such a thing as too much haste. At some of the tables where this hand was dealt, South overbid the 3-Spades with a bid by two tricks in each major for an East-West score of 200 points. In more cases the 3-Spades got passed. It was made at some tables, due to inept defense, and beaten where more expert resistance was offered.

Let's look at the record of the defenders who failed. The diamond K was led by South, who paid no heed to North's low 3, but raked in his A, then scored the club K and led the 7 to the Q. That completed the defenders' book, but it was the end of any business transacted by them. North returned the heart Q to the K. East ruffed the club J with the spade 2 and led the established diamond Q. North prevented a heart discard by ruffing with the spade 3, but East over-ruffed, scored the spade A, then led to the spade Q. The diamond 9 then enabled him to discard the heart 6. He led to the heart A and finished the hand with spades to make his contract.

Where the 3-Spades got set, South likewise opened the diamond K. But upon seeing the dummy and his partner's 3, he switched to the club K, then the 7 to the Q, and the A made the dummy ruff. East led a diamond from dummy to the J, forcing out the A. The heart 7 brought out the 2, 8 and K, and a spade was led to the Q. North ruffed the diamond Q, forcing East to over-ruff. The dummy could not be reached again to use the diamond 9, so the heart 6 had to be lost for the setting trick. By making the dummy ruff early, declarer's timing had been spoiled.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

A SLOW smile curved Val's mouth as she came over and sat on the foot of the bed, her eyes never leaving Sherry's face. "So you've been lying awake for hours worrying about me."

Sherry's tone was grave, her eyes searched her sister's face. "Val, are you sure marriage to Wade Carrington is what you want?"

Val's smile faded under her sister's steady gaze. "Very sure. You see—? Somehow, she felt a need to justify herself in Sherry's eyes, whereas she hadn't felt that way at all with her mother. She started off anew. "It's—like this, Sherry. Wade and I are complete realists. We know exactly where we stand with each other. We're very much attracted—too much so, lately, for our peace of mind. Why isn't that as good a reason for marriage as any other? I imagine it's the reason for most marriages."

"Maybe," Sherry said stubbornly, "but you and Rick had so much more than that. Val. How can you be sure you couldn't find it again sometime—all of it—not just the surface part, with no roots, no depth to it? You might meet someone else if you waited, someone you could truly love—"

"Stop it!" Val's face was as cold and hard as though carved from stone. "How could I try to find what Rick and I had with someone else—anyone else? That would be a worse disloyalty than I'm capable of."

"Darling—darling." Unshed tears pressed at Sherry's eyelids.

Val smiled then, a mocking smile, and reached out to lay her beautifully manicured finger tips briefly on Sherry's hand. "Don't cry over me, pet. Believe me, I know what I'm doing. Wade and I will be very good for each other. You wait and see. We'll have lots of fun." She said then, "We decided tonight on the date for our wedding. Aren't you curious?"

Sherry nodded.

"Next Saturday," Val told her. "Here at home, we thought, in the late afternoon. About cocktail time—that struck us both as appropriate and symbolic. Will you be my bridesmaid, darling?"

Sherry said quietly, "If you want me to, Val." And she added, her voice a little husky with the tears she would not shed, "I want—so very much—for you to be happy...."

The week that followed was a colorful, if hectic, montage of shopping for lovely clothes, of endless fittings, of one gay party after another. And since Sherry helped the bride select her trousseau, tried to keep her from growing too bored during fittings and, naturally, was invited to the parties given in Val's honor, it was a busy week for her as well as for her sister.

Things moved at a mad pace toward the climax of Saturday and Sherry felt sometimes as though she were being swept along in a whirlwind, against which she felt an urge to fight, but didn't because she knew it would be useless.

Val would be married in white and Wade wanted her to carry white orchids. Sherry could have slapped Susan Pyle for her barbed comment. "Wade's brides always wear white and carry orchids—it's a tradition." Val hadn't seemed to mind. She explained tolerantly to Sherry later that you simply had to know how to take Susan.

"I don't like her," Sherry insisted flatly. "I don't like any of that crowd, or understand what you see in them. And your friend Susan's the worst of all."

"She may be a bit jealous," Val said lightly. "She was quite mad about Wade for a while. Not that she blames me—he was completely out of love with her before I met him. But sometimes I wonder whether Susan is still carrying a small torch."

Sherry said, "It must have been quite an affair while it lasted. Doesn't that bother you at all, Val?"

Her curious golden gaze was very direct, so clear, so young, so unclouded by uncertainty or any need to compromise. Val's dark eyes fell before the candor of her sister's look.

But she answered, "No, it doesn't, darling. After all, why should I mind something that was over when I met Wade? Wouldn't that just be hunting for trouble?"

"I suppose it depends on how you look at it," countered Sherry. "Well, that's how I look at it...."

On Thursday it seemed as though all Val's plans might be upset. An emergency arose at Craven's which necessitated an immediate trip to New York on Leda's part. It looked as though the bride's mother would be conspicuously absent from the ceremony.

Val said bitterly to Sherry, "Even my wedding isn't as important as her damned job! Wouldn't you think, if we're as dear to her as she always tells us we are, she'd be able to work things out so her trip wouldn't mess up my wedding?"

"But, Val, she's trying to," Sherry replied in all fairness. "She's pulling every string possible to postpone having to go east."

And, in the end, Leda succeeded. Her employers decided their interests could be served satisfactorily if she arranged things so as to be in New York by Monday morning. And so, after all, by taking a plane, by leaving the wedding reception almost as soon as the bride and groom, Leda would be able to make her trip and her daughter's wedding dovetail.

"I knew she'd work it out," Sherry told Val with more confidence than she had actually felt.

dence than she had actually felt. "You're a lot more sure of her than I am, then," was Val's slightly acid comment.

But things went forward smoothly enough after that. And at five o'clock on Saturday Valerie Kent was married to Wade Carrington in what would later be described on the society pages as "a simple, but beautiful, ceremony in the charming apartment of the bride's mother, the highly successful career woman, Leda Kent."

Val was virginal and lovely in white velvet, with a fabulous bouquet of white orchids. Steve Jeffrey gave her away, looking very handsome and assured. Sherry liked the thought of Steve being the one to bring Val forward to the candle-lit altar between the windows. Somehow his presence seemed to lend solidity to the occasion, even though Sherry knew he hadn't been able to summon up much enthusiasm over Val's choice of a husband. The rest of the small wedding party were people Sherry knew only slightly, friends of Val's and Wade's, members of the gay crowd that revolved around Susan Pyle.

Sherry stood beside Val, slim and lovely in her bridesmaid's dress of soft turquoise, and listened to the age-old, moving words.... "In sickness and in health.... for richer, for poorer.... as long as ye both shall live...."

She wondered how Wade felt about the words, whether they brought back to him a picture of his other marriage, whether he felt their permanence and strength, or shrugged them aside in his own mind as the mere meaningless litany of an oft-repeated ritual.

And Val—how did she feel? Did she truly love the tall, darkly handsome man beside her, or was her marriage a part of the escape pattern her life had followed ever since Rick's death, founded on nothing more lasting than infatuation, pointing already toward the goal Wade's other marriages had achieved so speedily, divorce.

Sherry prayed, formlessly, wordlessly. Don't let it be that way. Val deserves happiness—she's never had it, except for such a little time with Rick. Then everything ended. Let her be happy now.... please let her be happy.... let the marriage work out....

Afterwards the were congratulations, laughter, people crowding around, kissing Val, shaking Wade's hand, wishing them happiness. Sherry was caught up in the excitement of it all. Her face warmed with color, her eyes sparkled, she smiled and smiled, she talked and drank toasts. Maybe, she told herself, if she held the very highest hopes for Val's future happiness, if she wouldn't even let herself think the marriage might end in failure, just thinking and being confident would make it so. At least, she would try....

STARS SAY—

For Tuesday, March 25

THE auguries on this day are most propitious for inaugurating new ideas and clever plans for pushing toward important desired objectives, with vim and initiative. New agreements and contracts are under favorable aspects and it is possible that change, travel, fresh ventures are furthered by diligence, shrewdness and well-directed techniques, attracting those interested by good work and sagacity.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are encouraged to give thought to the fulfillment of cherished plans and programs, worked out with diligence, integrity, shrewd and clever tactics, in which others may be attracted and give willing support. Change, travel, new ideas and astute manipulation may lead to high and successful enterprise on the way to progress and gratification, personal, financial and business. Dare the novel approach to such goals.

DIET AND HEALTH

Difficult Diagnosis to Make

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

THE physician is often called upon to distinguish between two conditions which, though similar, are very different in their effects. For instance, albumin may sometimes be found in the urine of young adults. This may occur because of a serious kidney disease or it may be due to a harmless condition known as intermittent albuminuria.

It is up to the doctor to decide which state of affairs exists, and he must exercise a great deal of care in doing so. A wrong decision can result either in the neglect of a grave matter or in treating a healthy active youngster as an invalid.

Irregular Intervals

In intermittent albuminuria, the albumin is excreted at irregular intervals. In fact there are longer periods during the day when the albumin is not excreted than when it is. No other abnormal substances such as red blood cells are found in the urine. Intermittent albuminuria often is first recognized during childhood. It is most frequent in youngsters between the ages of 13 and 16 years, and is uncommon after 25.

A test may be carried out which helps to show that the presence of the albumin is due to intermittent albuminuria. The patient empties his bladder one hour after going to bed in the evening. In the morning immediately upon

Both sides claimed victory in the Paraguay revolution. Does this mean we now will have two Paraguays, Upper and Lower?

Cave men's worries were similar to ours, says an anthropologist. Oh, no, they weren't — in their case saber-toothed tiger instead of the First of the Month.

Solid color ties in subdued tones will soon replace the garish wall-paper type of cravats prevailing now, says a style authority. However, we'll still get the other kind, come Christmas.

The Legionnaires like a scrap as much as did the Riff and when Abd-el asked for it they were only too glad to oblige.

Birth Anniversaries Are Marked At Party

Robert McCoy, Billy Bowers Are Hosts To 40 Friends

Residence of Dr. C. E. Bowers and Mrs. Bowers, South Court street, was the scene of a gala birthday party, when Billy Bowers and Robert McCoy entertained 40 of their friends in celebration of their birthday anniversaries.

Evening's entertainment started with a scavenger hunt, with Jack Stout's team winning. Party pranks and dancing were enjoyed by the young guests on the sunporch of the Bowers home. Profusion of carnations in all colors were used in decorating the home for the occasion.

Refreshments were served buffet style in the dining room. Table was covered with a blue cloth designed in yellow daisies. Yellow candles in crystal holders cast a soft glow over a huge white cake which had the names of the honored guests inscribed in green frosting.

Mrs. Robert McCoy, Mrs. Richard Funk, Mrs. James Whitehead, Columbus, and Mrs. Bowers assisted in entertaining the younger social crowd.

Miss Turner Bride Of George Steeley

Miss Helen E. Turner, daughter of Merle M. Turner, Logan street, and the late Mrs. Turner, became the bride of George H. Steeley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Steeley, route 4, on Saturday, March 8. The Rev. B. L. Allen performed the ceremony in Greenup, Kentucky.

For her wedding the new Mrs. Steeley chose a Winter-white tailored suit with a black top coat over her shoulders. Her bridal bouquet was white carnations. Bride attended Circleville high school and Mr. Steeley is a graduate of Central high school, Columbus. Bridegroom is employed at the Mead Corporation, Chillicothe. The new couple will make their home with the father of the bride in his residence on Logan street.

Hints on Etiquette

If a sudden death in the family, illness, accident or any serious happening, makes necessary the postponement of a wedding, small engraved or printed cards should be sent to all the invited guests explaining the situation. If there is no time to send such cards, some one of the family may call up individually on the telephone each person to whom an invitation was sent.

Today's Horoscope

Through your open-hearted, generous nature, you will make real friends and a happy marriage. You are careful and thrifty, and you will follow the plans you make for your future with care and precision, to success. Today is a good one regarding transportation, electrical control and mechanical matters. In your next year you will enjoy some good fortune, but be exceptionally cautious and circumspect in dealings with the opposite sex, particularly if a female. Courtship and marriage are best deferred. Born today a child will be successful through his or her own industry and endeavors, but sorrow through deception, especially if a female is threatened. Marriage is ill signified.

- One-Minute Test Answers
1. Paralysis of the lower half of the body.
  2. A pretended suppression of what one wishes to emphasize, as "I will not call attention to his trickery and deception."
  3. Checking, or keeping back growth; applied to the effect of light on plants or growing organisms.

Sportscaster Bill Slater reports, "Sixteenth Street looks like a circus midway, what with pop-stands, fortune-tellers and pitchmen of all sorts who've come in from all over the country to reap the one-day harvest of fast money." Slater will announce the great auto race over a coast-to-coast network.

Giving the broom a weekly bath will insure clean sweeping and make the broom last longer. Dip it up and down in hot, soapy water and then in clear water to rinse. Hang out of doors by the handle to dry.

Red plans to continue his work after he completes some added scenes at M-G-M for "Merton of the Movies."

"There's much to be done," Red said, "I try to stress to the kids that this is their country and they must work to keep it great."

"Grandma" Hedda Hopper had a more personal interest in a Hollywood premiere last Saturday than in any held in Hollywood for a long time. Her son, Bill, who just presented Hedda with her first grandchild, was given the general management of an auto agency in North Hollywood and, typical of the fabulous village, the event was given the "Hollywood treatment," complete with Klieg lights flooding the agency, visits of greats and near-greats and the "official blessing" by Hedda, who dashed to the affair immediately following her "This Is Hollywood" show.

Talent is discovered in strange places, as Meredith Willson can testify as a result of his constant search for new and promising young people to help with "Sparkle Time" appearances. But none was stranger than directly under Meredith's nose, where he found Soprano Norma Zimmer as one of his five singers, who comprise the "commercial with five heads." In spite of her wide radio and concert experience, lovely young Norma made her solo radio debut on "Sparkle Time" -- and brought down the house!

HOLLYWOOD, March 25—Funnymen Red Skelton has been doing some very serious work of late. He's been trying to find out what makes bad boys bad. He's been visiting reformatories and other places for delinquents.

"I give a show for them and afterwards I talk to them seriously to find out how they got into trouble," Red explained to your reporter.

"So many people blame crime on movies and the radio, and because I'm in both, I've been interested to learn what the score really is.

"I'm convinced that neither the movies nor radio breed crime. I think the environment of the home is the principal cause.

"I've talked to a lot of boys and I've yet to find one who got the idea for his crime from the movies or radio.

"Here's an example. One of the boys was sentenced for stealing an automobile. I said to him:

"what movie did you see to give you the idea of stealing a car."

"He looked at me and said, 'what are you trying to give me?' I said, 'well, maybe you got the idea from some radio program.'

"The boy replied, 'no, I didn't. I just wanted to steal a car so I stole one.'

"I said to him, 'I just thought that maybe you'd got the idea from either the movies or the radio.'

"He came right back, 'listen,' he said, 'there wasn't any radio or movies back in '49 during the California gold rush, were there? Men were jumping claims and committing other crimes then. They didn't need

Welfare Problems To Be Discussed At Columbus Meet

OHIO CITIZENS ASSEMBLY WILL OPEN THURSDAY

Seven Angles Of Welfare Work To Be Studied At Two-Day Meeting

Several Pickaway county residents interested in welfare work will be present Thursday when the two-day Ohio Citizens' Assembly sponsored by the Ohio Welfare Council opens in the Deshler Wallick hotel.

Laymen from all over the state who are interested in the state's welfare problems will attend the sessions which will include the Council's second annual meeting.

Opening general session will be held at 10:45 a. m. Thursday with Sen. Margaret A. Mahoney (D-Cleveland), the speaker. She will discuss health and welfare legislation now before the General Assembly.

Sectional meetings Thursday afternoon and Friday morning will consider seven aspects of welfare work: Care of the aged, neglected and dependent children, public health and medical care, group work and recreation, family life and security, adult and juvenile delinquency and mental hygiene.

Dr. Roger E. Heering, state director of health, and Charles Sherwood, state welfare director, will address a banquet meeting Thursday. Governor Thomas J. Herbert will be honor guest.

The Council, which is headed by Clarence D. Laylin, Columbus attorney, will hold business sessions Friday.

Mystery Surrounds Death of Farm Worker

POLICE SEEKING CLUES TO DEATH OF E. G. ROSSITER

BULLETIN

Charles O. Thompson, wanted by Circleville police for questioning concerning the mystery death of Edwin G. Rossiter, was in the custody of Chillicothe police Tuesday afternoon. Thompson was nabbed there after he had eluded police in Circleville.

Death of Edwin Gerald Rossiter, 31-year-old farmhand and World War II veteran who lived with his parents on Route 2, Kingston, remained shrouded in mystery, Tuesday, as investigating authorities attempted to determine whether he was a murder or accident victim.

Dr. Lloyd Jones, Pickaway county coroner, announced he would withhold an official verdict pending results of laboratory tests of the vital organs. He said a full report of the tests and an autopsy performed Monday night will likely be received Wednesday or Thursday.

A suspect in the case gave police the slip Tuesday. After hunting most of the night for the suspect, said to have been seen with Mr. Rossiter late Sunday night, two patrolmen went to the rear door of his home about 7 a. m. The suspect departed via the front door and reportedly ran on the railroad right-of-way. The officers spent two hours searching the vicinity but the suspect eluded them. He reportedly wore a grey overcoat answering to the description of Mr. Rossiter's overcoat reported missing.

THE AUTOPSY took place at the request of the coroner and was performed by Dr. Hartwell, a pathologist at Grant hospital, Columbus, who was assisted by Dr. Hemle, Columbus.

The lifeless body of Mr. Rossiter, who served with the Army combat engineers in Europe and Africa more than three years and received five bronze stars, was found shortly after noon Monday partially submerged in the waters of Hargus Creek under a Norfolk and Western railway trestle at the northwest edge of Circleville.

In a pocket of the overall clad body was the victim's Army discharge. Later the body was positively identified by two of his six brothers.

In a pocket also, Police (Continued on Page Two)

DEMOCRATS HIT GOP FARM PLAN

Knisley Hurls Charges As Result Of Naming Of Bath To Post

COLUMBUS, O., March 25 — Ohio Democratic headquarters charged today that the proposed reorganization of the state agriculture department was an attempt on the part of Governor Herbert A. H. Knisley to convert the agriculture department into an anti-labor, anti-coop arm of the Republican party.

The charge was issued over the name of Clarence H. Knisley, director of Democratic state headquarters. He singled out for particular attack the appointment of former Farm Bureau lobbyist Edwin J. Bath as secretary to the agriculture board and manager of the Ohio State fair at $8,000 a year.

Knisley declared that Bath, in his testimony before the agriculture committee of the Ohio senate, "criticized almost every feature of the Ohio Farm Bureau federation and its interest in labor."

"The Democratic party, Knisley said, 'would like to know what the philosophy of government, or the organization setup of the Farm Bureau or labor groups has to do with the administration of the affairs of the agriculture department, including the Ohio State fair.'"

"Certainly, farm groups and labor groups have common interests and common objectives. They are inter-dependent on each other. And if they walk arm in arm, that should be no concern of the state agriculture department."

Knisley said "it appears that the state of Ohio is financing Mr. Bath's feud with his former associate, Murray D. Lincoln, secretary and director of the Farm Bureau federation."

Knisley predicted that many other "angles" would "probably be uncovered before the feud between the two men ends."

MARSHALL SAID WAITING RIGHT TIME TO VISIT

MOSCOW, March 25 — Secretary of State George C. Marshall, only one of the three statesmen visiting Moscow who has not been received at the Kremlin, was understood today to be awaiting two developments: The first was said to be that Marshall wants to sit tight until an invitation is issued by Premier Joseph Stalin rather than make a personal request for an interview.

The second condition was said to be related to strategy. Marshall was believed to be inclined to wait a moment when the council of foreign ministers has reached a point where talks at the Kremlin may provide the touchstone to resolve problems still unsettled.

Committee Puts Gag On Demos Amending Tax Bill

WASHINGTON, March 25 — The house rules committee today imposed a "gag" on Democratic attempts to revise the Knutson tax reduction bill and cleared the way for its passage Thursday by the house without change.

The powerful GOP-controlled group over-ruled Democratic protests that the bill, which would cut taxes three billion, 800 million dollars this year, was "a discriminatory patchwork of political expediency."

The committee reported a "rule" permitting only minor amendments by the Republican-dominated ways and means committee to correct typographical errors in the bill. Six hours of debate, beginning tomorrow, was authorized to be followed by a final vote on passage Thursday afternoon.

No Democratic members of the ways and means committee appeared personally to oppose the "gag" rule, which is the normal procedure on a tax measure. In fact, Rep. Doughton (D) N. C., ranking minority committee member, sent word by Rep. Reed (R) N. Y., that he favored the "gag."

THOROUGH OHIO TAX LAW STUDY PROPOSED NOW

COLUMBUS, O., March 25 — A nine-member commission to make a thorough study of Ohio's tax laws and those of other states would be provided by a new senate bill today.

The measure, introduced by Sens. Ralph Winter (R-Lodi) and Stanley Mechem (R-Nelsonville), would appropriate $100,000 and empower the commission to hire an experienced tax expert and other personnel. The commission would report back to the next legislature and recommend any changes in the law it believed necessary.

Winter declared that "the fact that school, local government and other groups insist they are financially embarrassed is an indictment of our tax system."

Mechem said the new commission would be empowered to go further than did state tax commissioner C. Emory Glander, who studied the tax laws last year at the request of a special legislative session and recently submitted a list of 20 recommendations to the assembly.

Under terms of the bill, the commission could also study the taxing structures of the various subdivisions.

MEETING WITH SOLONS SAID 'VERY PROFITABLE'

WASHINGTON, March 25 — President Truman today regarded as "very profitable" a meeting he held last night with bi-partisan leaders on extension of his authority under the second war powers act.

Mr. Truman's outlook on the conference was revealed by the White House which emphasized that the "sole topic" of the 35-minute long meeting was the president's powers.

FERGUSON SAYS DEMOS BRIBED

Auditor Claims Republicans Give Office Holders Vacation To Quit

COLUMBUS, O., March 25 — State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson investigated today reports that Democratic state employees are being "bribed" to resign to make room for Republicans.

Department heads, Ferguson charged, are offering Democrats two weeks vacation with pay if they will resign.

"This is plain bribery," Ferguson stated flatly. "If such practices are going on, it means payroll vouchers are being falsified by department heads. Such offenses are punishable by penitentiary sentence."

The auditor said he was asking the cooperation of all state employees "to break up this apparent racket." He continued:

"I would like to hear from anyone given a two weeks vacation with pay in exchange for their resignation, or from anyone promised such a vacation."

The auditor said if he can secure concrete evidence of such a practice, the evidence will be turned over to the Franklin county grand jury for possible indictment of the department heads and further that the amounts of payments for "undeserved vacations" would be deducted from the salaries of the involved directors.

Ferguson stated: "There certainly is no use in the state spending money supporting the civil service commission or for examinations if the civil service is to be raped by the spoils system. Either let's have civil service or the spoils system. We can't have both."

OHIO SHERIFFS, LABOR OPPOSE PATROL POWERS

COLUMBUS, O., March 25 — Labor and the Buckeye State Sheriffs association today opposed the granting of general police powers to the state highway patrol.

The house judiciary committee is considering three measures which would broaden the powers of the patrol in varying degrees.

One would give the patrol traffic enforcement powers in villages of less than 5,000; the second would give them traffic enforcement powers everywhere, plus general police power on state property, and the third would give them general police power.

RUSSIANS SAID GETTING SECRET OF ATOM BOMB

Un-American Committee Asks For Stronger Security Measures By U. S.

WASHINGTON, March 25 — Rep. Thomas (R) N. J., chairman of the house un-American activities committee, expressed belief today that Russia "is making some progress toward getting the atomic bomb."

Thomas' statement followed testimony by William C. Bullitt, former American ambassador to Moscow, that the Soviet Union "already would have" dropped the A-bomb on the United States if she had possessed the weapon.

Bullitt's testimony immediately brought demands from committee members for stronger security measures to prevent the secret of atomic energy from falling into the hands of a foreign power.

Thomas said that he believed that "our security measures are not sufficient" and that Bullitt had "just substantiated my ideas."

REP. NIXON (R) Calif., a committee member, declared that "we must use every security measure possible to see that we don't let the Russians get the secret of the atom bomb." He added:

"They'll get it eventually anyway. They'll find it themselves or they'll steal it. But, we must make sure that we don't help them."

Bullitt told the committee that Communists are "attempting to seize strategic positions throughout the world for an eventual attack on the United States."

HE SAID that Russia "will not dare" to attack the United States, however, until she has manufactured the atomic bomb in quantity and has built up an air force superior to American air power. He added: "That gives us a period in which we can say to Stalin, 'stop,' and mean it and he will stop. But, Stalin will not stop of his own accord. He has to be stopped."

GREEN CLAIMS OUTLAWING IS COMMUNIST AID

WASHINGTON, March 25 — AFL President William Green told congress today that he strongly opposes legislation to outlaw the Communist party because such action would help "the spread of Communism."

Green testified before the house un-American activities committee that "outlawing the Communists would only drive them underground." He said: "The spread of Communism would be helped, not hindered by the enactment of laws making Communism illegal."

Green said that the Communists operate through the technique of infiltrating into organizations and that they have captured the control of many groups, "completely non-Communist in their origin."

Instead of legislation to outlaw the party, he recommended the creation of a national, bi-partisan commission "to restudy the internal and external security of our democracy, and to recommend a comprehensive program."

FIRST MEETING OF GUARD COMPANY SLATED TONIGHT

All men interested in joining Company I, Circleville unit of the Ohio National Guard, are requested to report at 8 p. m. Tuesday at the Armory.

Captain Jack Clifton, who will head the rifle company, said that several men had expressed interest and he expects the company quota to be filled quickly.

Earmarking of Funds Opposed By Clayton

WASHINGTON, March 25 — Under secretary of state William L. Clayton declared today he opposed restricting Greco-Turkish aid by specific terms governing distribution or provision for repayment. At the same time Sen. Pepper of Florida and Sen. Taylor of Idaho, Democratic liberals, demanded that the United Nations handle the Middle East crisis. They asserted that President Truman's plan would scuttle UN and embark the United States on a worldwide conflict.

CLAYTON told the senate foreign relations committee that aid to Greece is necessary because an economic crisis exists. He added:

"In view of the unusual conditions confronting us in this situation I do not believe that it would be wise or practical to specify now what the terms might be."

He said that assistance provided for military purposes "being essential to our own security" should be made as a clear grant.

Clayton told the committee that repayment of aid for civilian purposes could be sought when its effect had created an ability on the part of the receiving country to meet obligations in foreign exchange.

The undersecretary acknowledged that economic conditions are more favorable in Turkey than they are in Greece but added:

"I want to emphasize that none of the 100 million dollars recommended for Turkey is for normal civilian supply purposes. All of it will be expended for purposes which will contribute to the security of Turkey."

Clayton said this would include equipment for the Turkish armed forces and such related projects as rehabilitation of the railroad system.

Pepper and Taylor offered a joint resolution to provide financial aid for Greece through a UN fund to which the United States would contribute 250 million dollars.

Financial aid to Turkey was excluded. The senators said this problem should be handled by UN in the manner of Iran, Syria and Lebanon.

THEY URGED U. S. REPRESENTATIVES TO REQUEST AN EMERGENCY MEETING OF THE UN GENERAL ASSEMBLY

which would also discuss the Dardanelles, Palestine and middle eastern oil problems. The senators said these questions were directly related to the American entry into the Greco-Turkish crisis.

Pepper and Taylor in a statement accompanying their resolution charged that President Truman's plan for Greece and Turkey makes it clear that "we are committed to the same policy at least in every area of the world which we deem to be of strategic significance."

SPRING CROPS TO BE LESS IN 1947 THAN 1946

COLUMBUS, O., March 25 — An increase of 20 per cent in winter wheat plantings last fall will result in a slightly lower acreage of Spring-planted crops in Ohio this year compared with 1946.

Glenn S. Ray of the federal-state crop reporting service estimated decreases at one per cent in corn, six in oats, five in soybeans, nine in potatoes and 11 in barley.

Increases of 10 per cent are expected in sugar beets, one per cent in hay, and five per cent in cigar-filler tobacco.

Acreages of principal crops expected in Ohio in 1947 and acreages planted last year are: Corn, 3,634,000 in 1947 and 3,671,000 in 1946; oats, 1,325,000 and 1,410,000; barley, 16,000 and 18,000; all hay, 2,561,000 and 2,536,000; soybeans, 922,000 and 971,000; burley tobacco, 14,300 and 14,300; cigar-filler tobacco, 5,800 and 5,500; sugar beets, 32,000 and 29,000; potatoes, 50,000 and 55,000.

1,000 PHONES OUT OF ORDER AFTER STORM

Schools Closed, Towns Dark, As Near Hurricane Sweeps Over Ohio

King Winter, in a vengeful mood, paid a return visit to the Circleville area Monday night and lashed the area with a severe thunder and rainstorm topped off with gale-like winds which reached an estimated velocity of 50 miles an hour.

The hurricane-like winds continued throughout the night and Tuesday morning, littering Circleville streets with tree branches and limbs and doing other damage.

As a result of the severe rain and wind storm during which the mercury plunged downward rapidly, telephone and electric power service was impaired.

ED JURY, manager of the Ohio Consolidated Telephone company, said at noon Tuesday that considerable damage was caused but he was unable to estimate the damage in money.

Jury reported that approximately 1,000 telephones were put out of commission and that the wind blew down approximately 300 poles. He also reported that a 300-pair cable was considerably damaged and flooded in a man-hole at the rear of the fire station on East Franklin street.

The 1,000 telephones, Jury explained, are in the south section of Circleville and in rural areas mostly south of the city. Most of the 300 leveled telephone poles, Jury said, are in the county outside of Circleville.

Repair crews labored all night, Jury said, and the job was continuing Tuesday. All available men were pressed into service, Jury stated, and the company hoped to restore service on most of the 1,000 telephones by nightfall Tuesday.

CHARLES T. GILMORE, district manager in Circleville for the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric company, said power lines suffered only minor damage and that crews of linemen were making repairs as rapidly as possible. Gilmore said no serious trouble had been encountered as a result of the storm.

Fire Chief Talmer Wise reported that the storm damaged the already badly crippled fire alarm system in Circleville. Luckily, he said, no fires occurred during the storm.

Police and the sheriff's departments reported having received no calls resulting from the storm and no reports of damage.

The wind blew down a sign in front of the Jim Brown store on West Main street.

STALIN WILL TRY TO BARGAIN

Russia Reported Wanting British To Yield On German Problems

MOSCOW, March 25 — Soviet Premier Joseph Stalin was reported today to have adopted the position that Britain must meet Russia half way in any final solution of the future of Germany if the Soviets are to agree to Britain's request for extension of the Anglo-Russian treaty of alliance.

Indications that Stalin had decided to make any pact extension a point for bargaining were reported following a talk between the Soviet generalissimo and British foreign secretary Ernest Bevin last night.

It had been expected that British and Soviet officials would initiate steps for revision of the Anglo-Russian alliance simultaneous with resumption of sessions of the big four council of foreign ministers.

Reports in conference circles said that while the alliance was discussed by the two, Stalin took the position that the most important matter at present is settlement of the German problem.

The view seemed to be that if Bevin adopts a more conciliatory attitude in regard to Russian reparations claims and participation in control of the Ruhr Stalin may be disposed to extend the alliance.

Originally Stalin made it known that he wanted certain clauses of the pact strengthened before he would agree to extension of the pact from 20 years to 50 years.

A full report on Stalin's attitude was sent by Bevin today to the British cabinet.

FLEXIBLE PLAN OF UNIFYING IS 'IKE' PROPOSAL

WASHINGTON, March 25 — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower asked congress today for a "flexible" unification of the armed forces and sharply criticized "inter-service" arguments on the merger issue.

The Army chief of staff and wartime supreme commander in Europe told the senate armed services committee that a flexible organization is essential "in this day of scientific and technological war."

Eisenhower said he was "astonished" when he returned from overseas and found Washington military officialdom involved in controversies over the merger proposal.

Telling the committee that overseas officers were in unanimous agreement that unification was necessary, Eisenhower hit at military politics in Washington.

JACKSON SCHOOLS CLOSE

JACKSON, O., March 25 — Jackson School Supt. Kermit Daugherty announced today that city schools would be closed the remainder of the week because of the absence of a fourth of the students. Influenza and scarlet fever were blamed.

RUSSIA MAKES CONCESSIONS TO SPEED TREATY

MOSCOW, March 25 — Sudden abandonment of Russia's opposition on a raft of hitherto-deadlocked issues enabled the deputies of the big four foreign ministers to agree today on several highly-important clauses of the projected Austrian treaty.

While his fellow conferees sat in bewildered amazement, Fedor Gusev voluntarily reeled off concession after concession.

As a result, the deputies agreed to allow Austria a standing army of 53,000 men, and to eliminate the controversial word "fascist" from articles designed to insure against the return to key positions of former Nazis.

Gusev, after breaking the logjam on a half-dozen points by his conciliatory attitude, then proposed a plan for disposing of Austria's displaced persons. He would have persons of German origin removed from Austria, and then have Vienna authorities evacuate DP's within six months after the treaty became effective.

POLICE SEEKING CLUES TO DEATH OF E. G. ROSSITER

Chief William F. McCrady said, was a bottle of strychnine pills. Mr. Rossiter's brothers said he had been in the habit of taking the pills as a precaution against heart attacks.

CHIEF MCCRADY said that the marks of fingers around Mr. Rossiter's throat were plainly visible. Death had occurred "a number of hours" before discovery of the body, Dr. Jones said, and Chief McCrady asserted that the finger marks were emphasized by dents in the throat and neck.

At Chief McCrady's request photographs of the neck finger-marks were taken by a representative of the State Highway Patrol, Columbus, before the body was removed to the Deffenbaugh funeral home.

Although no formal verdict has been returned and while Coroner Jones declined to express an opinion as to whether Mr. Rossiter met with foul play, he did reveal that the autopsy had shown death was due to "strangulation."

In tracing the movements of Mr. Rossiter preceding the finding of the body Chief McCrady said police had found no one who saw him after about 11:30 p. m. Sunday when he was seen in the White Swan cafe on West Main street. Two brothers said they drove Mr. Rossiter to Circleville about 10 a. m. Sunday but did not see him after he got out of the car at that time. They also said they took him home late Saturday night. Police said Mr. Rossiter attempted to cash a government check Saturday night in the Eagles' lodge home in Circleville. The brothers said they knew nothing about the check and that so far as they knew he had $3 or $4 when they brought him to Circleville Sunday morning.

Chief McCrady said a lone 50-cent piece was in a pocket when the body was found.

Coroner Jones said the autopsy report will likely reveal the quantity of strychnine if any and also the amount of alcohol if any in the body.

Police and the coroner said that whether Mr. Rossiter fell from the railway trestle — about 30 feet above the spot where the body lay — remained a matter of conjecture.

The body was found face up and in about two feet of water but head and shoulders were out of the water and the head was resting on a large rock.

If Mr. Rossiter plunged from the trestle to the creek, police declared, just why he was on the trestle remains a mystery.

MR. ROSSITER was born June 2, 1915, in Ross county, the son of Humphrey Rossiter and Alice Miller Rossiter. He was inducted into the Army on June 23, 1942 and was discharged Oct. 14, 1945. In addition to the Eagles' lodge he was a member of the Corn Planters tribe, Red Men's lodge, Adelphi, and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Chillicothe.

Survivors include a sister, Mrs. Maizie Wise, Chillicothe; and six brothers, Ronald Rossiter, Lorin Rossiter, Darwin Rossiter, Arlie Rossiter, Cecil Rossiter, and Roland Rossiter, all of Route 2, Kingston. His brothers said he was married about six months ago but never had lived with his bride, who, they said, resides at Chillicothe.

The body will be removed from the Deffenbaugh funeral home Wednesday evening to the residence of Isaac Rossiter, one mile west of Whisler, where the victim had been making his home. Friends may call there. Funeral and burial will be Thursday at 2:30 p. m. at Hallsville.

SHE RINGS "MRS. HUSH'S" BELL

"HOLD THE PHONE" could well be the advice to Mrs. William H. McCormick, Lock Haven, Pa., as she lets go of the receiver on hearing that her identification of "Mrs. Hush" as Clara Bow Bell will bring her $17,500 in prizes. Her exasperation might be the problem of splitting her radio prizes with her sister and neighbor, who helped her make her selection and with whom she has agreed to share the awards. ## Earmarking of Funds Opposed By Clayton

United Nations upon the altar of haste and condemn it to death for inaction before we give it a chance to act.

"The handling of this crucial matter through the United Nations is, therefore, of the sternest necessity to the future of the United Nations and the peace of the world."

Sen. Walter George (D) Ga., declared today that he saw the Greco-Turkish aid program as a counter-move to oppose a Russian expansion "which might not perhaps stop at any ocean barrier."

George did not identify Russia by name, but referred to a "great power" in Europe now "engaged in a program of expansion."

He told Undersecretary of State Clayton that "we might as well be frank—as long as they succeed in a program of expansion, they will expand."

George said he saw "no other alternative" to President Truman's apparent request for authority to "throw up a barrier to further expansion."

Clayton told the senate foreign relations committee, of which George is a member, that situations outside Greece and Turkey are "bridges that would have to be crossed when we get to them."

But he added: "I don't think it would be wise to draw any conclusions. . . that this is just the first step in a program that has not been disclosed to congress. These are the only two critical countries (Greece-Turkey) that I know of."

The two allies, of regulation length, are a birthday present to Mr. Truman from what the White House describes as "a group of anonymous donors."

The bowling alleys are being erected in the basement of the executive wing in a space formerly occupied by wartime files.

The alleys are scheduled to be completed for presentation to the president on his birthday anniversary, May 8.

The great mystery is who gave the President the bowling alleys and why.

The President himself said this morning that he has not bowled since he was 19 years old. The President will be 63, May 8.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross would not throw any light on the mystery. He said the alleys are a gift of anonymous donors and wouldn't cost the government any money.

"Are the bowling alleys for the use of the President or the anonymous donors?" Ross was asked. He replied, laughingly: "The president said he may take up bowling again."

1,000 PHONES OUT OF ORDER AFTER STORM

Pickaway street, and at Ashville the gale blew part of the roof from the Crites Canning company.

Late Monday night the rain changed to snow.

Many sections of Ohio reported storm damage.

INJURIES and property damage were mounting, all traffic was virtually paralyzed in many northern counties and scores of schools were closed.

Center of the storm passed squarely over the Cleveland area around 3 a. m. and dropped the barometric pressure to 28.65 — the lowest in the history of the weather bureau for that area.

The wind, coming in gusts that bowled pedestrians right off their feet, ranged from 55 miles an hour in velocity at Cleveland to 75 miles at Akron.

Weatherman C. G. Andrus described the storm as an "equinoctial," which invariably occurs shortly before or after a change of seasons. He said it came out of the Northwest with little or no warning and was battering the lake area from Chicago eastward.

DAMAGE and injuries came from both phases of the disturbance. The resulting snow and cold extended as far south as Columbus, where power lines were torn down, part of the capital city was without lights and other damage reported.

In the South, the thunder-showers and electrical disturbances caused widespread destruction from Cincinnati northward.

Springfield had early evening thunderstorm and gale winds. Dayton reported winds between 50 and 60 miles an hour. Five hundred employees of Williams Shoe Manufacturing company at Portsmouth were sent home when a power line was blown down. Kenton high school and other Hardin county schools were closed due to ice and snow.

INITIAL outbreak was from the southeast late yesterday after the mercury had climbed to record highs for the year so far. It was 81 at Cincinnati this morning, compared with 65 degrees yesterday afternoon.

During the night the winds shifted to northwest, drawing into Ohio what the weather bureau described as a "hurricane-like" depression. Winds increased in intensity and snow squalls buffeted the countryside.

In a matter of 16 hours the mercury plunged 25 degrees or more to below freezing readings over the entire state this morning.

At 10 a. m. today, Andrus said the winds were beginning to diminish in force and would continue to fall off toward evening.

The cold, however, was to hang on through tomorrow, with even lower morning temperatures than those of today. The weather was to be partly cloudy, with a tendency to warming up again by Thursday.

TEACHERS' PAY RAISES STUDIED BY OHIO SOLONS

FEPC Legislation, Turnpike
Commission Considered
By Committees

COLUMBUS, O., March 25—A pay raise of 14 and a half million dollars a year for Ohio's 40,000 school teachers was considered by the senate education committee today.

It was believed likely, however, that the committee would side-track the proposal, submitted by the Cincinnati Republican delegation. The group already has recommended for passage the 85 million dollar a year Daniels-Cramer school bill which the pay raise proposal seeks to supplant.

The Cincinnati senators —
Fred Reiners, Stanley McKie and Kyle Brooks — contend their proposal would mean a more money in pocket for teachers than the 26 millions a year additional provided by the Daniels-Cramer school bill.

They point out that changing the school foundation formula, as the Daniels-Cramer bill provides, does not guarantee teachers any specified increase other than to guarantee a $2,000 minimum for teachers with a bachelor's degree. The money otherwise goes to local school districts to more-or-less do with as they see fit.

MEANWHILE, the senate commerce and labor committee conducted another hearing on fair employment practices legislation, while the highways committee scheduled a hearing tonight on the Winter proposal to establish a state turnpike commission.

Four bills were being brought to the senate floor for a vote, including one to make permanent the present temporary law making absentee voting easier for those in the armed forces.

In the house, the judiciary committee considered three measures broadening the power of the state highway patrol, while the taxation committee studied measures to repeal the state admissions tax to enable cities to levy on this source of revenue.
The bills follow the suggestions of Governor Herbert.

THE SENATE last night recommitted two Cleveland bills to the judiciary committee for a study of an alleged "sleeper" clause at the request of the bill's sponsors, Sens. Allan Corlett (R-Cleveland) and Margaret Mahoney (D-Cleveland).

The bills would permit the state public works director to contract with Cleveland to permit the city to construct a new breakwater and water intake.

REP. FRANK W. MOULTON DIES OF HEART ATTACK

PORTSMOUTH, O., March 25
—The house of representatives mourned the loss of the third member this year today with the death of Rep. Frank W. Moulton, 70, who was serving his second term in the general assembly.

Moulton died unexpectedly
Saturday afternoon of a heart attack while lunching at a downtown Portsmouth restaurant with a fellow Scioto county Republican leader, John F. John-ley.

The former county prosecutor was a brother-in-law of Branch
Rickey, president and general crib, and to lease tidelands for oil and gas drilling.

Robert Morgan, an assistant in the Cleveland law department, charged that an amendment to the bills jeopardized Cleveland's fight to obtain full control of its water front—a fight now before the state supreme court.

The senate unanimously passed a bill extending for two more years the right of retired teachers to return to the classrooms because of the present teacher shortage.

The house adopted by rising vote a resolution expressing regret at the death of Rep. Frank
W. Moulton (R-Scioto) who collapsed of a heart attack in Port-

OHIO MOTHER OF 1947 REARED 11 CHILDREN

CLEVELAND, March 25—Mrs.
Hester A. Miller, the 86-year-old mother of 11 children, today held the title of the Ohio mother of 1947.

Mrs. Miller, who lives in suburban Lakewood, was selected yesterday by the American mother committee through its
Ohio chairman, Sarah Harding Hunter.

The Miller family came from Pennsylvania and settled in Licking county, 15 miles from Columbus. Mr. Miller died in 1922 and his widow successfully raised her eight boys and three girls, saw them through college and launched on careers.

The Miller boys were baseball enthusiasts and had their own team, with an uncle as the ninth member. Five of them served in World War I.

Mrs. Miller lives with one of the sons, Edgar A. Miller, principal of West high school in Cleveland.

"UNBLOCK" your DIGESTIVE TRACT

And Stop Dozing Your Stomach
With Soda and Alkalizers

Don't expect to get real relief from headache, sour stomach, gas and bad breath by taking soda and other alkalizers if the true cause of your trouble is constipation.

In this case, your real trouble is not in the stomach at all. But in the intestinal tract where 80% of your food is digested. And when the lower part gets blocked food may fail to digest properly.

CHANDLER MAY ASK FOR PEACE IN BALL SEASON

Ruling Everything Was Big Misunderstanding Seen In Baseball Rumpus

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 25—A ruling that everything was a great big misunderstanding loomed today as the probable outcome of hearings baseball commissioner Happy Chandler is conducting on charges of defamation made by Larry MacPhail against Branch Rickey, Leo Durocher and road secretary Harold Parrott of the Dodgers.

On Friday Chandler will hold another "hearing" at a local hotel, when, according to announced plans, he will continue to investigate the biggest baseball rumpus of recent years.

Because only MacPhail and Rickey have been asked to attend this session, informed baseball quarters believe that it really will be a peace talk. Instead of putting the two club presidents on the witness stand, it is whispered, he will, in effect, order them to get ready to kiss and make up.

What happened at yesterday's hearing in Sarasota to bring the commissioner around to this way of thinking is not precisely known, because all the participants were instructed by Chandler not to talk. Reliable sources report, however, that the "I was misunderstood" motif predominated throughout.

THE HEARING was held with MacPhail and Dan Topping, co-owners of the Yankees, representing their club. President Will Harridge of the American League also was present, but took no active part in the affair.

In the absence of Rickey, who was at Portsmouth, Ohio, attending the funeral of his brother-in-law, the Dodgers were represented by assistant general manager Branch Rickey, Jr., Walter O'Malley, secretary and treasurer of the club; Arthur Mann, assistant to the president; and state senator George H. Williams, a St. Louis lawyer and old friend of Rickey's.

Seven witnesses were heard—including Durocher, Parrott, coaches Charles Dresen and Red Corriden of the Yankees, Augie Galan, former Dodgers outfielder now with the Reds; Ted McGrew, former Dodgers scout now with the Pirates; and Topping.

What Durocher—who was accompanied by his wife, Lorraine Day, when he flew over from Havana for the hearings along with other Dodgers officials—had to testify could not be learned along the grapevine.

Who gave the tickets to Memphis Engelberg and Connie Immerman, the two Broadwayites who were pictured sitting close by MacPhail at a game in Havana, also was a moot point in the hearing.

NORTHLEY JOINS PHILS CLEARWATER, Fla., March 25—Ron Northley, erstwhile hold-out outfielder, will make his 1947 debut today when the Phillies meet the Cincinnati Reds. Manager Ben Chapman, who is satisfied with the performances of his regulars, plans to try out his rookies in the remainder of the Spring circuit games.

CUBS DROP THREE LOS ANGELES, March 25 —The Chicago Cubs sheared three players off their roster today. After the Cubs lost, 5 to 0, in 11 innings yesterday to the San Diego Padres, Manager Charley Grimm announced the release of pitchers Ed Hanyzewski, Ray Prim and Russ Bauers.

TWIN HEAVYWEIGHTS FOR EX-FLIER

SPORTING A JAUNTY CIGAR, ex-Army flier John F. Driscoll, Jr., of Pittsburgh, views the latest additions to his family. Unnamed when this picture was made, the twins, held by Nurse Rosemary Kruse, are the heaviest twosome ever born at St. Joseph's Hospital, weighing in at nine pounds, one and one-half ounces, and eight pounds, six and one-half ounces. The Driscolls have three other children. (International)

Odds and Ends Of News From Cage Tournament

COLUMBUS, O., March 25 — Scrambled scribbles from the sports samovar. Cleaning out the state tournament file. Veteran Middletown observers called their 1947 team "the school's worst in seven years—it would be hard to convince East Liverpool that such was the case.

A major factor in the Middies' success is a "feeder" system that starts the lads playing basketball in grade school. They play all year around, with asphalt outdoor courts-dotted city playground facilities.

One of the most popular tournament features was the between-halves exhibition put on by the Hamilton high school tumbling club for both afternoon and evening finals crowds. Credit for a marvelous show goes to Jim Grimm, diminutive balding Hamilton gym instructor.

Sets Air Record

MARGIE HURLBURT of Painesville, O., school teacher and ex-WASP, set a women's international speed record of 337 miles an hour over a standard three-kilometer course at the Tampa, Fla., all-woman air show. Previous record of 292 miles was set by Jacqueline Cochran in 1937. (International)

The newly organized state Basketball Coaches association gave early evidence of becoming a vociferous power in the scholastic sports set up. Among "beefs" aired by the cage mentors were many aimed at almost every phase of state tourney play—with particular emphasis on alleged financial penny-pinching by OHSAA authorities.

Support is strongly in favor of returning to the pre-war arrangement of a 16-team state tourney in each division. The principal argument is giving teams a trip to Columbus but what about fans who lose the opportunity to see their favorites play near at home if regionals were eliminated.

Apparently having the surname of Lee may not be a sure-fire guarantee to fame, but it does help. Both first team and one second team guards on the Class B all-tourney team bear that first name. Lee Bohlender

KENTUCKY LOSS IS RATED UPSET OF THE CENTURY

NEW YORK, March 25 — N.C.A.A. basketball final between Oklahoma and Holy Cross at Madison Square Garden to-night will be merely an anticlimax to Utah's sensational triumph over all-powerful Kentucky for the national invitation title.

Utah's "Cinderella Kids" scored the court upset of the century last night by defeating Kentucky, heavily-favored defending champions, 49-45, in the big game of the year.

The amazing feat of the "Upset Utes" in making fabulous Kentucky bite the dust may be a sign that Holy Cross, another red-hot quintet at the moment, could trip up Oklahoma in to-night's game. The Crusaders have won their last 22 starts. However the Sooners, with 11 wins in their last 12 starts, also are right on the ball.

In the "consolation" opener, Texas clashes with City College, which lost to Holy Cross Saturday night.

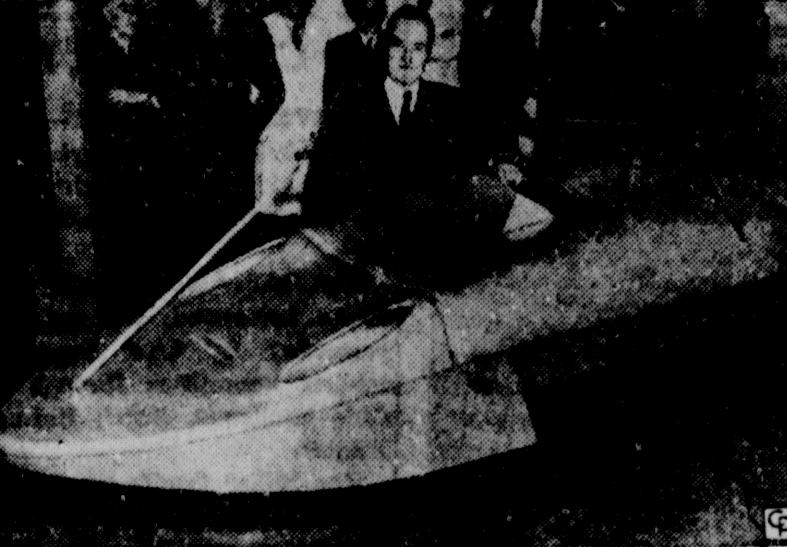

Regardless of the outcome of tonight's games, basketball fans today still were talking about last night's super-duper which saw the downfall of Kentucky, the nation's No. 1 quintet which had won 33 out of 36 games this season.

of Phillipsburg and Lee Thomas of Columbiana won first team mention, while Lee Kattman of New Knoxville made the alternate quintet.

Lima sources report Bill Sharp, Central's All-Ohio half-back, is headed toward Ohio State. Sharp's a bit on the small side, but Lima fans knowingly remind that so were Tommy James, Tippy Dye and numerous others. Sharp, incidentally, has taken up track this Spring and is expected to become one of the best quarter-milers in Central history.

Sam Manos, Ohio State freshman, couldn't make a very big splash against such Buck divers as Bruce Harlan, Miller Anderson, Jim Strong and Jack Calhoun. So he forsook the swimmers and hitch-hiked to Champlain two weekends ago and won himself the Big Nine tumbling championship.

NEW BOAT MARK HIS GOAL

AUTOMOBILE and motorboat racing king, Sir Malcolm Campbell now plans to make a new assault on his own world motorboat record of 141.7 miles per hour. He has a new racer, jet-propelled, with which he is seen in photo taken at Hayes, England. (International) game losing streak to bounce the Boston Braves 3-2. Handley rapped out two hits, drove in two runs and scored the third.

RUSSIAN VETO OF ALBANIAN ACTION SLATED

Seven Nations Expected To Vote 'Guilty' Against
Albania In UN

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., March 24—A veto by the Soviet Union looms today in the United Nations security council's expected indictment of Albania on charges of complicity in a secret mine-field in the Corfu channel.

Authentic indications are that if the 11 members of the council can reach a showdown on the British complaint that Albania committed "an offense against humanity," seven will cast their ballot for a verdict of guilty. Britain, as the complaining country has no vote.

Syria, Poland and Soviet Russia have persistently championed the Albanian cause. Since a matter of substantive by a big five power is involved, a negative vote on the issue by Soviet delegate Andrei Gromyko will constitute a veto.

British and other delegation members also indicated that the issue has become a test of principle and that the prestige of the council to a large extent is considered to stand or fall on its ability or inability to make a decision.

FURTHER attempts by Gromyko to forestall a vote are regarded as likely to drag the case into still another session, although the United States and France are ready to support Britain in calling the turn and compelling a decision.

Competent sources believe that if Gromyko casts a veto, Britain will feel vindicated and take the case to the international court at The Hague, where there is no veto.

On the agenda of the eleven o'clock meeting this morning is an American amendment "softening" the British charges that Albania laid the mines or that it was done "with the connivance" of the Albanian government.

THE WORKING committee of the atomic energy commission will hold its first session behind closed doors at three o'clock this afternoon and formulate procedural plans. Russia has called for immediate consideration of proposals submitted in the form of amendments recently which on the whole nullify the basic provisions of the Baruch atom control plan.

A close working accord between the United States and Britain on conventional disarmament was strikingly revealed in almost identical declarations made before the first session yesterday of the commission for conventional disarmament.

Both U. S. acting representative Herschel V. Johnson and Britain's Sir Alexander Cadogan insisted that sharp teeth be given the United Nations through creation as speedily as possible of an international military force placed at the beck and call of the security council.

Diplomatic sources claim that Soviet Russia has consistently blocked all efforts in the military staff committee to draft plans for an international United Nations force. Gromyko listened impassively to the silent accusations pointed his way by the western delegates and gave no inkling as to his own disarmament program.

AMERICAN, OHIO MOTHERS OF 1946 HONOR GUESTS

CLEVELAND, March 25—The American and the Ohio mother of 1946, as well as a Jewish mother, were feasted Monday at a luncheon and symposium in Cleveland.

Mrs. Clarissa Clement, Louisville, Ky., granddaughter of a slave and mother of seven children, all college graduates, headed the list of guests. A Negro, she was chosen the mother of 1946.

Mrs. Joy Seth Hurd, Cleveland, who won the state honor as well as that of the Catholic family conference last year, and Mrs. Barnett R. Brickner, wife of Capital University varsity girls basket ball team for 1946-47.

Cleveland Rabbi Brickner, were the other honored mothers. Mrs. Brickner took the place of Mrs. de Fola Poole, who was called to Palestine.

The three mothers gave a brief talk, followed by a discussion. Mrs. Louis B. Seltzer acted as moderator.

The Cleveland women's forum, a five-year-old group organized to bring together women of all creeds and races on a common basis, sponsored the affair.

Brass Telescope, Other Interesting Antiques Owned By Mrs. Renick

An old heavy brass telescope or field glass used in surveying the Virginia-Maryland boundary around the year 1800 is now one of the valued possessions of Mrs. Clara Renick, 154 Watt street.

Mrs. Renick's husband, William Bennett Renick, died more than 35 years ago. The old telescope, handed down from father to son in the Renick family, was once used by William Bennett Renick, in establishing the Virginia-Maryland boundary line.

Still visible on the ancient field glass is the inscription of its maker which reads "C. West, Chancery Lane, London, England, Day or Night."

Many years after the survey was made the Renick family moved westward.

Mrs. Renick has many other interesting antiques, including a very old and large brass compass and a small case of old-time brass drafting instruments.

Among the relics is a pair of sun-glasses with very small oval-shaped green lenses. The frame of the sun glasses is made of brass. The bows are perfectly straight and are adjustable as to length.

Mrs. Renick also possesses an old pocketknife which has two blades, a double saw blade, two awls, a screw driver, and a cork-screw.

In her home reposes a mahogany davenport and a mahogany desk which have a history. Many years ago — before the railroads — her husband and his brother drove cattle from Pickaway county to the New York market. After selling the cattle they purchased these two items of furniture to bring back home.

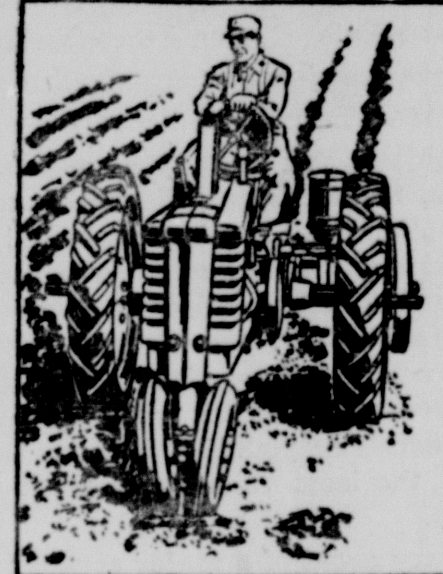

Mr. Renick dropped dead in the backyard and he was carried into the home. It was on this davenport that physicians pronounced him dead. His brother also died on the davenport.

His sister, Mrs. Nellie Smith, who died several weeks ago in Circleville, was the last member of Mr. Renick's family.

COMMUNIST STUFF

ONE METHOD for handling the Communist Party in the United States as a political entity requires no Constitutional Amendment nor new federal law nor anything drastic or questionable involving civil or political rights. It is not new, but has been employed successfully for years. It can be applied by individual citizens without any red tape. It is just not voting for Communist candidates!

Consider, for example, the sincere and godly Norman Thomas, not a Communist, but its opposite, a Socialist, who has been stumping for his Co-operative Commonwealth since long before Hector was a pup. He has made himself liked and respected. But does he get elected? Certainly not. Americans don't want Socialism.

The Postoffice was going before Mr. Thomas began to talk, so he gets no credit for that most socialistic of American institutions. But he made certain wrongs visible, and can claim some credit for school lunches, old age pensions and like matters. Senator Taft, a conservative Republican, has been stealing socialist thunder by pushing federal aid for schools. In other words, Americans want no form other than their own, but can adopt good ideas regardless of their origin.

Communist candidates, on the other hand, have made themselves thoroughly disliked and distrusted. Do they ever get within hailing distance of election? Certainly not.

The supreme court says civil service need keep on its rolls no subversive person. This is eminently reasonable. Unions need not elect such people to office. No meeting need allow itself to be disrupted.

"You have a right to think as you please, Mr. Commie, and to utter your views in a public park or to hire your own hall. But your rights stop where those of others begin. This is our meeting to discuss our own problems. Behave yourself in an orderly and courteous manner, as a loyal American, or get out."

All this is within our own powers without any more laws.

On the positive side, why don't we stomp a bit ourselves? Why don't we talk up and down the land about the wonders and glories of our free America?

While experience is valuable in public office, is it more so in Congress than in the White House?

As for Japan, there's life in the old dame yet, and she's using it now for better purposes.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, March 25—Dear Mr. Editor (an Ohio paper) you write in an editorial: "Of course Mr. Mallon isn't a newsman." I don't think you know news. I do not believe you understand news values. You are like a United Press editor who once cabled his correspondent in Spain: "your think stuff unwanted", meaning anything the reporter thought about the situation was not wanted, was of no value, whereas such a report would have been more revealing of the situation than all the non-objective statements of all sides then being published.

Think about this news question for a moment! Normally all newspapers publish some daily news which is known not to be true (Russian press accusations for instance), statements of open or concealed propagandists, the view concerning all subjects of a man who may be an expert on only one subject. You carry the speeches of partisans, the foistings of politicians, (even in columns), the hopes of promoters, the statements of press agents. You strain at a reporter but daily swallow an army of promoters, politicians, press agents. You actually pay to get their views, although they themselves are paid and make a living from daily deceiving you. This is run of the mine news, the least valuable news. It is cheap news.

Yet in every event of a major economic-political-international nature, there can be found someone somewhere who knows the truth of the situation or at any rate the facts behind it. This man's views, which are the most valuable news of all, alone are excluded from the run of mine news, which you normally get.

Now nine times out of ten the man (or men) who really knows what is going on, who can fathom the genuine nature of developments, their inspiration, meaning, import, intent, motif—that man cannot afford to be quoted. He does not wish to become involved in public rows, (there can be no money in that for him), or add needlessly to his worries. That is the man I am always seeking, the man who really knows and can pass on an objective account to the public. Your specific editorial criticism concerned a stock market column. The accurate explanation of the inside of the market is certainly greater news than you have obtained from your financial writers. If they had presented such understanding to the public, I would not have mentioned the subject.

You have become confused also about columnists. You are thinking of all of us as Ickeses. He went into the columning business for political propaganda purposes, to use the free space you not only furnish him, but actually pay him for filling with political news you formerly received free in the handouts of his press agents. Many other columnists have come directly out of the propaganda machine of the political administration here for political purposes visible to the naked eye. I am not of that school. I was a reporter for a press association here, writing the statements of both sides, or rather their propaganda for many years, which experience showed me the possibilities of objective reporting.

IT IS all well and good to be in a hurry to cash your high card tricks on the defense against the other fellow's contract. But there is such a thing as too much haste. Just a little carelessness in collecting your own tricks can sometimes result in establishing a winner for the declarer which may give him the vital discard that enables him to make his contract. At some of the tables where this hand was dealt, South overbid the 3-Spades with 4-Clubs, got doubled and was set by two tricks in each major for an East-West score of 200 points. In more cases the 3-Spades got passed, it was made at some tables, due to inept defense, and beaten where more expert resistance was offered.

Let's look at the record of the defenders who failed. The diamond K was led by South, who paid no heed to North's low 3, but raked in his A, then scored the club K and led the 7 to the Q. That completed the defenders' book, but it was the end of any business transacted by them. North returned the heart Q to the K. East ruffed the club J with the spade 2 and led the established diamond Q. North prevented a heart discard by ruffing with the spade 3, but East over-ruffed, scored the spade A, then led to the spade Q. The diamond 9 then enabled him to discard the heart 6. He led to the spade A and finished the hand with hearts to make his contract.

Where the 3-Spades got set, South likewise opened the diamond K. But upon seeing the dummy and his partner's 3, he switched to the club K, then the 7 to the Q, and the A made the dummy ruff. East led a diamond from dummy to the J, forcing out the A. The heart 7 brought the 2, 8 and K, and a spade was led to the Q. North ruffed the diamond Q, forcing East to over-ruff. The dummy could not be reached again to use the diamond 9, so the heart 6 had to last for the setting trick. By making the dummy ruff early, declarer's timing had been spoiled.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

A SLOW smile curved Val's mouth as she came over and sat on the foot of the bed, her eyes never leaving Sherry's face. "So you've been lying awake for hours worrying about me."

Sherry's tone was grave, her eyes searched her sister's face. "Val, are you sure marriage to Wade Carrington is what you want?"

Val's smile faded under her sister's steady gaze. "Very sure. You see—" Somehow, she felt a need to justify herself in Sherry's eyes, whereas she hadn't felt that way at all with her mother. She started off anew. "It's like this, Sherry. Wade and I are complete realists. We know exactly where we stand with each other. We're very much attracted—too much so, lately, for our peace of mind. Why isn't that as good a reason for marriage as any other? I imagine it's the reason for most marriages."

"Maybe," Sherry said stubbornly. "But you and Rick had so much more than that. Val, how can you be sure you couldn't find it again sometime—all of it—not just the surface part, with no roots, no depth to it? You might meet someone else if you waited, someone you could truly love—"

"Stop it!" Val's face was as cold and hard as though carved from stone. "How could I try to find what Rick and I had with someone else—anyone else? That would be a worse disloyalty than I'm capable of."

"Darling—darling." Unshed tears pressed at Sherry's eyelids.

Val smiled then, a mocking smile, and reached out to lay her beautifully manicured finger tips briefly on Sherry's hand. "Don't cry over me, pet. Believe me, I know what I'm doing. Wade and I will be very good for each other. You wait and see. We'll have lots of fun." She said then, "We decided tonight on the date for our wedding. Aren't you curious?"

Sherry nodded. "Next Saturday," Val told her. "Here at home, we thought, in the late afternoon. About cocktail time—that struck us both as appropriate and symbolic. Will you be my bridesmaid, darling?"

Sherry said quietly, "If you want me to, Val." And she added, her voice a little husky with the tears she would not shed, "I want—so very much—for you to be happy ..."

The week that followed was a colorful, if hectic, montage of shopping for lovely clothes, of endless fittings, of one gay party after another. And since Sherry helped the bride select her trousseau, tried to keep her from growing too bored during fittings and, naturally, was invited to the parties given in Val's honor, it was a busy week for her as well as for her sister. Things moved at a mad pace toward the climax of Saturday and Sherry felt sometimes as though she were being swept along in a whirlwind, against which she felt an urge to fight, but didn't because she knew it would be useless.

Val would be married in white and Wade wanted her to carry white orchids. Sherry could have slapped Susan Pyle for her barbed comment. "Wade's brides always wear white and carry orchids—it's a tradition." Val hadn't seemed to mind. She explained tolerantly to Sherry later that you simply had to know how to take Susan. "I don't like her," Sherry insisted flatly. "I don't like any of that crowd, or understand what you see in them. And your friend Susan's the worst of all."

"She may be a bit jealous," Val said lightly. "She was quite mad about Wade for a while. Not that she blames me—he was completely out of love with her before I met him. But sometimes I wonder whether Susan is still carrying a small torch."

Sherry said, "It must have been quite an affair while it lasted. Doesn't that bother you at all, Val?"

Her curious golden gaze was very direct, so clear, so young, so unclouded by uncertainty or any need to compromise. Val's dark eyes fell before the candor of her sister's look.

But she answered, "No, it doesn't, darling. After all, why should I mind something that was over when I met Wade? Wouldn't that just be hunting for trouble?"

"I suppose it depends on how you look at it," countered Sherry.

"Well, that's how I look at it ... On Thursday it seemed as though all Val's plans might be upset. An emergency arose at her mother's which necessitated an immediate trip to New York. So Leda's part. It looked as though the bride's mother would be conspicuously absent from the ceremony."

Val said bitterly to Sherry, "Even my wedding isn't as important as her darned job! Wouldn't you think, if we're as dear to her as she always tells us we are, she'd be able to work things out so her trip wouldn't mess up my wedding?"

"But, Val, she's trying to," Sherry reminded in all fairness. "She's pulling every string possible to postpone having to go east."

And, in the end, Leda succeeded. Her employers decided their interests could be served satisfactorily if she arranged things so as to be in New York by Monday morning. And so, after all, by taking a plane, by leaving the wedding reception almost as soon as the bride and groom, Leda would be able to make her trip and her daughter's wedding dovetail.

"I knew she'd work it out," Sherry told Val with more confidence than she had actually felt.

"You're a lot more sure of her than I am, then," was Val's slightly acid comment.

But things went forward smoothly enough after that. And at six o'clock on Saturday Valerie Kent was married to Wade Carrington in what would later be described on the society pages as "a simple, but beautiful, ceremony in the charming apartment of the bride's mother, the highly successful career woman, Leda Kent."

Val was virginal and lovely in white velvet, with a fabulous bouquet of white orchids. Steve Jeffrey gave her away, looking very handsome and assured. Sherry liked the thought of Steve being the one to bring Val forward to the candle-lit altar between the windows. Somehow his presence seemed to lend solidity to the occasion, even though Sherry knew he hadn't been able to summon up much enthusiasm over Val's choice of a husband. The rest of the small wedding party were people Sherry knew only slightly, friends of Val's and Wade's, members of the gay crowd that revolved around Susan Pyle.

Sherry stood beside Val, slim and lovely in her bridesmaid's dress of soft turquoise, and listened to the age-old, moving words ... "In sickness and in health ... for richer, for poorer ... as long as you both shall live ..."

She wondered how Wade felt about the words, whether they brought back to him a picture of his other marriages, whether he felt their permanence and strength, or shrugged them aside in his own mind as the mere meaningless litany of an oft-repeated ritual. And Val—how did she feel? Did she truly love the tall, darkly handsome man beside her, or was her marriage a part of the escape pattern her mother had followed ever since Rick's death, founded on nothing more lasting than infatuation, pointing already toward the goal Wade's other marriages had achieved so speedily, divorce.

Sherry prayed, formlessly, wordlessly. Don't let it be that way. Val deserves happiness—she's never had it, except for such a little time with Rick. Then everything ended. Let her be happy now. Please let her be happy ... let this marriage work out.

Afterwards there were congratulations, laughter, people crowding around, kissing Val, shaking Wade's hand, wishing them happiness. Sherry was caught up in the excitement of it all. Her face warmed with color, her eyes sparkled, she smiled and smiled, she talked and drank toasts. Maybe, she told herself, if she had the very highest hopes for Val's future happiness, if she wouldn't even let herself think the marriage might end in failure, just thinking and being confident would make it so. At least, she would try ...

DIET AND HEALTH

Difficult Diagnosis to Make

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

THE physician is often called upon to distinguish between two conditions which, though similar, are very different in their effects. For instance, albumin may sometimes be found in the urine of young adults. This may occur because of a serious kidney disease or it may be due to a harmless condition known as intermittent albuminuria.

It is up to the doctor to decide which state of affairs exists, and he must exercise a great deal of care in doing so. A wrong decision can result either in the neglect of a grave matter or in treating a healthy active youngster as an invalid.

Irregular Intervals

In intermittent albuminuria, the albumin is excreted at irregular intervals. In fact, there are longer periods during the day when the albumin is not excreted than when it is. No other abnormal substances such as red blood cells are found in the urine. Intermittent albuminuria often is first recognized during childhood. It is most frequent in youngsters between the ages of 13 and 16 years, and is uncommon after 25.

A test may be carried out which helps to show that the presence of the albumin is due to intermittent albuminuria. The patient empties his bladder one hour after going to bed in the evening. In the morning immediately upon arising he again empties his bladder. The specimen obtained the first thing in the morning, as a rule, will be free from albumin. The patient lies backward over the edge of the bed with his feet on the floor for about an hour. He then has an empty bladder and this latter specimen usually will be found to contain albumin.

Is Not Serious

According to Dr. Irving J. Wolman of Philadelphia, intermittent albuminuria is in no way a dangerous condition and after the patient reaches 25 years of age or thereabouts the condition usually clears up. He states that this disorder should not bar a person from getting life insurance.

On the other hand, kidney disease which produces albumin in the urine is serious. Hence, telling one of these conditions from the other is important. As I have mentioned, when the albumin is due to kidney disease, the urine will contain albumin throughout the entire twenty-four hour period and irrespective of whether the patient is lying down or is up and around. In addition, it will also contain red blood cells as well as casts, which are molds of the tiny tubes in the kidney made up of granular or other material.

Whenever albumin is found in the urine a microscopic examination of the urine should promptly be carried out in order to aid the doctor in determining the cause of the difficulty.

Assignment: America ... by Kenneth L. Dixon

WASHINGTON, March 25—"This is more than a fine home," said the real estate agent with an expansive flourish. "It is an excellent investment."

"Why?" I asked him.

"Because it actually cost the contractor nearly $14,000 to build it in 1940."

"Yes, but you're asking $18,000 for it."

He laughed at such innocence.

"Yes, and we'd be asking $25,000 for it, if people paid as much attention to quality of construction as they do to convenience of location. That's what we could get for it in a dozen other Washington suburbs. That's what it would cost to re-build it now—anywhere."

"Do you mean it costs twice as much to build a house now as it did seven years ago?" I wanted to know. "Why? Whose fault is it?"

"THAT'S WHAT the builders tell us," he said. "And they all say the same thing. Don't ask me why. We only sell the houses. We don't construct them. Go ask the builder."

The builder was emphatic about it.

"Sure," he said. "The cost of turning out a finished house has more than doubled in the past five or six years. At least, it has around here—and what I hear from other parts of the country, I guess it's about the same there ..."

"And we're not getting much out of it, no matter what folks say. Of course, most builders still try to get the same old ten per cent profit on the total cost, when they can isn't too often any more. Since houses cost more, that means their flat cut on most houses they build is about double what it was in 1940 and '41, but they can't build nearly as many nowadays. Besides, their own living costs have about doubled in that time, so they're lucky to break even with the old days ..."

HE PAUSED to listen to a question. Then his stubby fingers started pushing a pencil over a page torn from a notebook.

"Where does the money go? Well, just about everywhere. Start with the lot. The lot that house is built on probably sold for about $1,500 back in 1940. Today, it would cost you at least $3,000 to get one like it on the same street."

He was right. It would cost more than that.

"Then you start down the list, right from the beginning, and everything is just about twice as expensive. Some things, of course, are in proportion to the finished price—like plans, permits, survey work, insurance, appraisal, title, recording fees and the like—but most items have just doubled in cost individually ..."

"Take the brickwork on this house, for instance. Now the material cost isn't quite double what it was in 1940. I'd say it's about a 60 per cent increase. But the bricklaying cost has more than doubled. I could get bricklayers for about $1.10 an hour in 1940. Now, the scale is nearly $2.40. On this house, that would mean the difference between about $700 and about $1,600. See what I mean?"

DRAWING out old ledgers to prove his points, he went on down the list.

"Hardwood floors for a house like this would run you about $250 six years ago. Today, you couldn't touch the job for less than $550. Carpentry labor on this type of building has almost tripled. That would mean the difference between, maybe, $800 then and $2,200 now, on this kind of a job ..."

"Plumbing, heating, plastering—it's all the same. Where labor costs haven't doubled, material costs have more than doubled, and vice-versa."

The builder took a deep breath.

"And then you get down to our overhead and miscellaneous. Believe me, Brother, that covers a multitude of sins!"

"Up to now, I've just talked about the cost of things. But, with all the shortages of labor and materials, what about the trouble it takes to get skilled labor and good materials—even at those prices? Brother, there are things you have to do today, even if you're an honest builder and have been in the business for 20 years, things you can't put down on any cost sheet. Except as miscellaneous, I mean ..."

HIS FIGURES and estimates seemed to bear out the real estate agent's statements. And the builder's own ledgers and receipted bills certainly proved most of his own estimates, in general.

But, other than as the cost was passed on to them, neither man could tell why building prices were so high and going higher.

And, strangely, neither man seemed to know much about the activities or goals of the various building and real estate lobbies right here in Washington!

Birth Anniversaries Are Marked At Party

Robert McCoy, Billy Bowers Are Hosts To 40 Friends

Residence of Dr. C. E. Bowers and Mrs. Bowers, South Court street, was the scene of a gala birthday party, when Billy Bowers and Robert McCoy entertained 40 of their friends in celebration of their birthday anniversaries.

Evening's entertainment started with a scavenger hunt, with Jack Stout's team winning. Party pranks and dancing were enjoyed by the young guests on the sunporch of the Bowers home. Profusion of carnations in all colors were used in decorating the home for the occasion.

Refreshments were served buffet style in the dining room. Table was covered with a blue cloth designed in yellow daisies. Yellow candles in crystal holders cast a soft glow over a huge white cake which had the names of the honored guests inscribed in green frosting.

Mrs. Robert McCoy, Mrs. Richard Funk, Mrs. James Whitehead, Columbus, and Mrs. Bowers assisted in entertaining the younger social crowd.

Miss Turner Bride Of George Steeley

Miss Helen E. Turner, daughter of Merle M. Turner, Logan street, and the late Mrs. Turner, became the bride of George H. Steeley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Steeley, route 4, on Saturday, March 8. The Rev. B. L. Allen performed the ceremony in Greenup, Kentucky.

For her wedding the new Mrs. Steeley chose a Winter-white tailored suit with a black top coat over her shoulders. Her bridal bouquet was white carnations. Bride attended Circleville high school and Mr. Steeley is a graduate of Central high school, Columbus. Bridegroom is employed at the Mead Corporation, Chillicothe. The new couple will make their home with the father of the bride in his residence on Logan street.

First EUB Church Youth Fellowship Meeting Is Held

Youth Fellowship of the First Evangelical United Brethren church enjoyed the hospitality of the home of Donald and Mary Ann Woodward, 125 Mingo street, Monday evening for the monthly business and social meeting.

Devotions were directed by Ralph Starkey, president. Group sang the hymn "What a Friend We have in Jesus," followed by Dolores Hawkes reading from the Psalms, for the Scripture lesson. The Rev. Carl L. Wilson led in prayer.

During the business session a nominating committee was appointed to report a slate of officers at the next meeting. Yearly calendar committee was selected to report next month. Group made arrangements to meet its Easter building fund apportionment in full. Donald Woodward and James Starkey were selected to meet with representatives of the Tyler Memorial church, Chillicothe, to arrange a fellowship exchange in the near future.

Mary Ann Woodward conducted two contests with awards going to Jeanne Spangler and Samuel Tomlinson. Feature of the program was a sound, film presentation of "Rhythm Time" and "The Door to Heaven." Next meeting will be held at the home of Patsy Johnson, 445 East Franklin street, April 28.

Refreshments were served by the hostess to the following members and guests: Dolores Hawkes, Harry Tomlinson, Kathryn Tomlinson, Viola Costlow, Phyllis Hawkes, Norma Dawson, Charles Gard, Samuel Tomlinson, Evelyn Tomlinson, Patsy Johnson, Mary Ann Woodward, Donald Woodward, James Starkey, Jeanne Spangler, Ralph Starkey, Jean Harrington, Clarence Radcliffe, Mrs. Charles Ater, Mrs. Chester Starkey, the Rev. ## Miss Schreiner Is Guest Of Honor At Shower And Party

Miss Betty Lou Boggs, East Franklin street, entertained Monday evening for Miss Christine Schreiner, bride-elect of Leo Morgan.

Gifts for the bride-to-be were placed around an artistically decorated pink and white crepe paper sprinkler can. Background of huckleberries formed the setting for the vases of pink and white snapdragons in the living-room, where the guests were assembled as the guest of honor opened her many useful gifts. During the social hours the guests held several contests, with prizes being awarded to Miss Helen Wilson and Miss Norma Coffland.

Among those invited were, Mrs. Ed. Schreiner, Mrs. Emmitt Morgan, Mrs. Lewis Carter, Mrs. Delbert Puckett, Mrs. George Neff, Miss Coffland, Miss Joan Cook, Miss Wilson, Miss Marcella Lanman and Miss Nancy Boggs. The hostess was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Fred Boggs.

PLAN SUPPER

Members of Presby-Weds of the Presbyterian church will have a covered-dish supper, Sunday at 6:30 p. m. in the social rooms of the church. Mr. and Mrs. George Fishpaw and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Jury will serve on the committee in charge of all arrangement for the supper. Invitation has been extended to all married couples of the church to attend the supper, followed by a social evening.

CE PLANS MEETING

Business meeting is slated for members of Christian Endeavor of the East Ringgold Evangelical United Brethren church, Friday at 7:30 p. m. to be held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hammel, East Ringgold.

Welfare Problems To Be Discussed At Columbus Meet

OHIO CITIZENS ASSEMBLY WILL OPEN THURSDAY

Seven Angles Of Welfare Work To Be Studied At Two-Day Meeting

Several Pickaway county residents interested in welfare work will be present Thursday when the two-day Ohio Citizens' Assembly sponsored by the Ohio Welfare Council opens in the Deshler Wallick hotel.

Laymen from all over the state who are interested in the state's welfare problems will attend the sessions which will include the Council's second annual meeting.

Opening general session will be held at 10:45 a. m. Thursday with Sen. Margaret A. Mahoney (D-Cleveland), the speaker. She will discuss health and welfare legislation now before the General Assembly.

Sectional meetings Thursday afternoon and Friday morning will consider seven aspects of welfare work: Care of the aged, neglected and dependent children, public health and medical care, group work and recreation, family life and security, adult and juvenile delinquency and mental hygiene.

Dr. Roger E. Heering, state director of health, and Charles Sherwood, state welfare director, will address a banquet meeting Thursday. Governor Thomas J. Herbert will be honor guest.

The Council, which is headed by Clarence D. Laylin, Columbus attorney, will hold business sessions Friday.
